OPENING OF NEW ACACIA AVENUE SCHOOL BUILDING INFORMALLY CELEBRATED

Parent-Teachers' Association Gives Program, Led by Mrs. Peter L. Ferry and Mrs. William Alexander in Charge of Entertainment

285 CHILDREN ARE REPORTED AS ENROLLED

Teachers for the Year Are Introduced, Superintendent White Speaks, Federation President, Mrs. Moore, Is Introduced

An informal opening of the new building at Acacia avenue school was held last night by the Parent-Teacher association. There was a splendid attendance and this was the first P. T. A. meeting of the school year.

A short program was presented, which opened with the salute to the flag and the singing of one verse of "America," led by the patriotic chairman, Mrs. Peter L. Ferry. Mrs. William Alexander, program chairman, was in charge of the evening's entertainment.

Richardson D. White, city superintendent of schools, gave a talk on the work of the P.-T. A. and what it meant to both parents and teachers.

The teachers were then introduced, by the association president, Mrs. Arthur Wilson. They were, principal and first grade, Miss May Cornwell; second grade, Miss Euliel Ballanger; third grade, Miss Mary Rich; fourth grade, Mrs. Luella Bullis; fifth grade, Miss Gladys Hopkins; sixth grade, Miss Daisy Curran, and kindergarten, Miss Edith Ledgard. This was followed by the introduction of the officers for the coming year. They were vice president and financial chairman, Mrs. Edward Strong; secretary and publicity chairman, Mrs. C. M. Sudlow; treasurer, Miss May Cornwell; auditor, Mrs. Luella Bullis; historian, Mrs. Harry Levey; program chairman, Mrs. William Alexander; courtesy chairman, Mrs. Robert H. Lord; membership chairman, Mrs. Searles; patriotic chairman, Mrs. Peter L. Ferry; parliamentarian, Mrs. O. W. Esselman; home economics, Mrs. E. W. Evans; education and kindergarten, Mrs. Fred G. Hartman.

Mrs. E. B. Moore, federation president was then introduced by Mrs. Wilson, and Mrs. Brown of the board of education made a few remarks. It was reported at this time that 285 pupils have been enrolled at Acacia Avenue school so far this year.

The past presidents of the Mother's club were introduced and four of them presented with pins. They were the first four presidents and the pins were presented by Mrs. Harry Levey with an original verse as follows:

"The Acacia Avenue P.-T. A.
Has had good presidents always;
These chief officers have numbered six,
So we found ourselves in quite a fix,
When we happened to think we had honored two,
While four others the same hard work did do.
We then decided 'twould be no sin
To present these four past presidents each with a pin.
In the order in which they came along,
Their names are Todd, Priaulx, Wattles and Strong.
Underneath the spirit of laughter and jest,
Is the same loving appreciation we expressed to the rest."

Mr. Curtis, one of the fathers, suggested that a silver offering be taken to help put in a new lawn. A sum of over $14 was realized and Mr. White suggested that the board help them out and do the rest.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served, the punch being furnished by the Green Hill Beverage company.

This was followed by inspection of the new building and each teacher went to her respective room and received the parents as they came in. All rooms, including the office and newly furnished teachers' rest room were appropriately decorated for the occasion.

GLENDALE MUSIC CLUB SETS HIGH STANDARD

Opening Concert of Season Is Scheduled for Thursday Night

The Glendale Music Club is setting a great pace for itself the coming season by its opening concert to be given Thursday evening, October 5, in the Glendale High School Auditorium. At that time the club will present Claire Forbes Crane, a young pianiste who is attracting much attention; John Smallman, regarded as the finest baritone singer on the Pacific coast, and our own Julius Kranz, violinist-composer.

It will be the first appearance before the club of John Smallman and Claire Forbes Crane and therefore of unusual interest to the community. For Julius Kranz, whose parents live in Glendale and who was once a pupil in Glendale High, it will be a home coming. As a special treat he will play some of his own compositions.

The program in detail follows:

PEON PANTS MARK LA MADRID DANCE

The chamber of commerce hall was the scene last night of a Spanish Specialty dance given by the La Madrid club of the high school. "Spaniards" were very much in evidence. Most of the boys wore "peon pants" with gorgeous sashes, and many smiling young ladies were stepping to the tunes of Jerry Parker's orchestra arrayed in beautiful Spanish costumes.

The hall was tastefully decorated in the high school colors, red and black, while a noticeable feature was alternating red and blue lights.

President Harry Bennet announced at the affair that the club will give a charity ball for the benfit of California's crippled children on Friday, October 13.

YANKS CAPTURE PENNANT WITH ONE INNING

FENWAY PARK, BOSTON, Sept. 30.—New York won the American league pennant here this afternoon when the Yanks won from the Red Sox 3 to 1 in the game that decided the championship.

Four hits in the first inning off Ferguson, gave New York the three runs that netted the victory.

Waite Hoyt weakened in the ninth inning after pitching a great game. The Red Sox rallied and Joe Bush was sent in to save the game. Bush pulled himself out of a tough hole when Johnny Mitchell, former Yankee, was nipped off second sleeping on the base. The victory today cinched the pennant, as the Yanks only have one more game to play and if the St. Louis Browns should win their two remaining games, the Yanks would still finish with a lead of one full game.

OPTIMISM RULES KIWANIS CLUB DINNER

Lon Haddock Paints Picture of Glendale of the Near Future

In a ringing speech that sent a thrill of pride through every Kiwanian and visitor present at the noon luncheon of the club yesterday at the Broadway Inn, Lon J. Haddock, prominent realtor of Glendale and Santa Monica, declared that Glendale will more than come up to the wildest dreams of our imagination in city building and development of the surrounding country. Having a vision of the future growth of the city, and imbued with an indomitable energy characteristic of live-wire realtors, Mr. Haddock delivered a speech of enlightenment that made every member feel he was indeed fortunate to have a home in Glendale.

"Those who get the most out of this life are the ones who put the most into it," said Mr. Haddock, "and I believe the average man who lives in this section does not comprehend what it means to live here and work and grow up with the fastest growing city in the world. It is not climate alone that makes Southern California great—there are a thousand other things that go into the consideration of making this the best place in the world to live.

"Los Angeles now has under construction more buildings than New York and Chicago together; and I want to tell you that the Santa Fe railway alone brought into Los Angeles more people than all the other roads distributed among the other towns and cities of the state, and this also in the last few months when the strikes were seriously hampering travel. You can't keep Glendale and Southern California from growing. Everything speaks of permanency in California. The so-called dreamers of our future development are the wise prophets of today, who have an intuition of the future that is proving not a dream, but a reality, as time goes on. Our harbor, at San Pedro, will be forced to extend its line to Santa Monica and even farther up the coast. Southern California has just begun to develop," concluded Mr. Paddock.

Reports from the sewer committee and the ball club were given. The Kiwanis club is taking an active interest in the two propositions and much good work is being done.

J. L. Watson won the attendance prize which was given by Fred Deal. Mr. Watson was asked to sing a song as a reward for the prize.

Kiwanians and visitors present were Fred Deal, Dr. C. W. Taylor, W. H. Reeves, George T. Smith, R. M. McGee, W. L. Taylor, J. L. Watson, Ray Galvin, P. J. Hayselden, Ed Radke, C. F. Stuart, Dr. T. C. BUSINESS WOMEN TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

The first anniversary of the organization of the Glendale Business and Professional Women's club will be celebrated next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock with a paid entertainment in the clubhouse of that organization.

The numbers on the program which has been arranged by the membership and friendship committees have not been announced, that they may come as a surprise, but Mrs. Mary Baxter, chairman of the membership committee, declares they will be vastly entertaining. It will be open to all friends of members at 25 cents per ticket.

The club has already a good enrollment and is about to put on a membership drive which will bring in many business women of the city who are interested but who have not been enlisted heretofore because members have been too busy to attempt any united effort to invite others to join with them. It has a wonderfully pleasant club home at 126 South Maryland and the entertainment next Wednesday will afford opportunity to inspect the quarters.

HURT RAT'S FEELINGS

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Julius Redmond was fined $5 on charges of cruelty to animals. He tried to kill a sewer rat, but it escaped after Redmond hurled a brick. He missed it.

VAN NUYS IS DEFEATED BY HIGH TEAM

Overweighed Ten Pounds Per Man, It Holds Visitors

THE SCORE IS 14 TO 0

Smoothness and Speed and Good Defense Is Shown

In spite of the handicap of being outweighed by over ten pounds to the man, Coach Hayhurst's grid squad defeated the Van Nuys eleven 14 to 0 in a practice game on Moyse field yesterday. The Glendale lineup: Thayer, L. E.; Clouse, L. F.; Phillips, L. G.; Marshal, C.; Shannon, R. G.; Bartow, R. T.; West, R. E.; Horii, Q.; Butts, R. H.; Ryan, F. B.; and Stofft, L. H.

Substitutes: Chase, Eifler, Detrich, Gingery, La Valle, Ross, Brucker, Weaver, Geib and Huntington.

FORGET - ME - NOT DAY SET FOR NOV. 4

Extensive plans are being made throughout the nation for "Forget-Me-Not" day, which will be held November 4. It will be similar in every respect to the "Forget-Me Not" day that was held on December 13, 1921.

The following communication has just been received by Mayor Robinson of Glendale:

"November 4, 1922, has been officially designated as 'National Forget-Me-Not' day of the disabled American Veterans of the World War. The national organization, with headquarters at Cincinnati, Ohio, has selected this day for all chapters throughout the United States to conduct an intensive drive to raise funds to assist disabled American veterans of the World War in dire need of financial assistance, while awaiting their compensation settlements.

"On that day the generous public of our great nation will have an opportunity to do their "bit" for those who did their "bit" back in those days of Nineteen Hundred and Eighteen; naturally disabled veterans come to their own organization when in need of aid.

"The State Department of California, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, has designated the First National Bank of Sacramento to act as treasurer for the collective chapters, and the individual chapters have in turn designated banks in their respective cities to serve in a similar capacity for the funds collected by their chapters. All funds are to be collected in sealed containers and turned over to the bank, sealed. The bank on completion of the drive will open those containers, tabulate the proceeds and turn the containers over to the bonded treasurer of the local chapter. No individual or committee will handle the funds collected. Each worker will make his deposits to the bank direct, and the containers must be sealed when deposited with the bank. This will eliminate the possibility of anyone being accused of misappropriating the funds collected, for the banks will handle the money from the start to the finish.

"Honorable William D. Stephens, Governor of California, issued a proclamation on Forget-Me-Not Day Dec. 13th of last year and has promised to do likewise on Forget-Me-Not day, November 4 of this year.

"The State Department of Califrnia, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, earnestly solicit your co-operation with our local committee by appointing a citizens' committee composed of some of your leading club, fraternal and business people to aid in putting the drive "over the top."

"In accordance with the above facts, the Disabled American Veterans of the World War hereby appeal to Your Honor for your sincere consideration and immediate action relative to issuing a permit for this drive."

HEADLIGHTS MUST GO SAYS CHIEF FRASER

Glendale officials will soon start a campaign against glaring headlights.

Chief Fraser said this morning that starting October 15, it was his intention to direct officers to rigidly enforce the state law against glaring headlights. It is his opinion that by that date all drivers who intend to avail themselves of the service of the three stations will have had time in which to have adjustments made.

ADVERTISE CALIFORNIA IS SLOGAN

Sacramento Chamber of Commerce Calls on Glendale to Line Up

STATE WIDE MOVEMENT

United Action to Take Care of Big Army of Easterners Coming

A rousing, state-wide movement to build up the civic-commercial organizations in California and thus oe prepared to derive the maximum benefit from the National advertising campaigns now being carried on in the interest of California development is urged by the Sacramento chamber of commerce in a communication received today by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

It is suggested that the big campaign be held in November, preferably the second week of the month.

Stressing the importance of such a movement, Secretary-Manager A. S. Dudley of the Sacramento chamber of commerce, says:

"The next twelve months will see California advertised as never before throughout the United States. Record-breaking advertising campaigns will be under way.

"Everyone is so well aware of the value of advertising that it hardly needs to be stated that during the next two years more people will come to California than during any previous two-year period in the history of the state.

"So, our big job in California will be to take care of the newcomers; to see that they get started right—on the farms and in the cities; and to provide opportunities for them."

MISS WAYHAM IS STAR OF PRESS NEWTON RADIO

BERNICE WAYHAM
Lyric Soprano

Big surprises often come in little packages. This saying was proved true in the case of Bernice Wayham, who sang over the Press-Newton radio station last evening. Miss Wayham is a lyric soprano, pupil of Prof. Howard Edward Cavanah. She is little, but—oh, my. Her voice was as clear as a bell and annunciation was wonderful. She has been spoken of, by an English critic, as the 90 pound girl with the 1000 pound (sterling) voice. Last night, she sang, "As in a Rose Jar" by Chas. Wakefield Cadman, and one other selection from "Butterfly."

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Edward Cavanah, teachers of music, also favored radioland. They each sang a solo and then sang two duets and the best way to describe how wonderful it was, it was that kind of real music that makes little thrills of appreciation run up and down one's body.

To touch the entire program off in good shape, Herbert Brucks, violinist, played three selections, accompanied at the piano by Marion Jones. The selections played were, "Mighty Lak a Rose"; "Gypsy Love Song"; "Sometime."

WHAT D'Y MEAN?

DETROIT, Sept. 30.—Peter Van Lerberghe, 26, paid $30 to learn what "cafeteria" meant. He bawled the help out for not waiting on him. It led to a free for all fight and the fine.

REVOLVER STOLEN

A revolver was stolen from the home of Rev. James S. O'Neill, 227 East Lomita, yesterday afternoon. Officers Stein and Royle have been detailed to the case.

HIGH MILLINERY NIGHT CLASS IS CROWDED

Heavy Enrollment in Night School Causes Many Problems

The board of trustees of the Glendale Union High School is finding problems in connection with the heavy enrollment in the night school classes. A. L. Ferguson, principal, reports 90 registrations for millinery and 50 for sewing. That means more teachers than were employed last year for these subjects, and the organization of a larger number of classes, but since the public is showing its appreciation of the privileges offered, the board is going to stand by its guns and provide the needed instructors.

The full registration for the school has not been totalled, but it is running heavy in all subjects.

TAG DAY STARTS WITH RUSH OF ENTHUSIASM

Money Comes Rolling in the Night Before the Drive Starts

The big tag day drive for funds for the electrification of the Glendale line started with a rush early this morning and has been rushing ever since. Dr. Jessie A. Russell, chairman of the tag day committee, stated this morning that everything was going along splendidly. All of the workers assigned for morning duties were on the job bright and early and although few reports as to amounts secured have been turned in, it is definitely known that the drive is going over with a great big hurrah.

A number of the women started work just as soon as they received the tags last night. Mrs. T. H. Addison reported that she had collected $32 in tax money last night. Mrs. W. E. Mercer had collected more than $50 up to 8:30 this morning and was going strong. The Harrower laboratory took $40 worth of tickets to be distributed among the employes. The Fox-Woodsum Lumber company called headquarters this morning and asked that a bevy of pretty girls be sent to the lumber yard with a lot of tags at noon today. This request was complied with. This is the way it is going. All over the city intense interest is being manifest.

But the big fireworks are being reserved for this afternoon and tonight. The corps of workers was greatly increased immediately after noon and these livewires are scouring the city. The different sections of the city are being covered by the various women's clubs, and it is expected that every home and business house will be visited before darkness falls tonight.

Tonight will be the big event. The tag day parade, which is overseen by the Kiwanis club, will be the big event. This will consist of trucks, conveying jazz artists and vocal stars, pretty tag saleslades, and other boosters. There will be a number of trucks and a large number of machines. This motorcade will travel through the city, giving concerts and gathering in the dollars.

One pleasing feature about the drive is that very few tags other than blue ones are being seen on the streets. It is expected that the blue tags will go big tonight.

Some of the workers who are on the job are Miss Sarah Pollard and Miss Mable Evarts of the Business Woman's club; Mrs. T. H. Menk, Mrs. Herring, Mrs. T. H. Addison, Mrs. W. E. Mercer, Mrs. Mabel L. Tight, and Mrs. Harry James, all of the Glendale Advancement association; Mrs. Hattie Gaylord, Mrs. Gifford, Mrs. Lemon of the W. C. T. U.; Mrs. C. A. Perry, Mrs. E. B. Moore, Mrs. L. T. Rowley of the Parent-Teacher federation; Mrs. W. C. Maybry, Mrs. E. J. Morgan of the Thursday Afternoon club; Mrs. Chalmers Day and Mrs. Hyer of the Woman's auxiliary of the American Legion, and a number of others.

Mrs. H. E. MacMullin, chairman of the civics committee of the Tuesday Afternoon club, has charge of the drive among the business houses. She has a number of assistants and is making a thorough canvass of the business men.

POLICE BENEFIT FUND

At a meeting in Chief Fraser's office yesterday the Glendale police officers took initial steps toward the organization of an officers' sickness and benefit fund. A committee consisting of Officers Kerns, chairman, Simmons, Collins, Royle and Nunn was appointed to devise ways and means of creating this fund and a committee consisting of Officers Griffin, chairman, Claxton, Epps, Fleming and Baugh was appointed to select ways and means of entertaining for the benefit of the fund. The boys hope to give a ball soon, the proceeds to go to swell this fund.

FOUND DRUNK

F. J. Burney of Los Angeles was arrested at the corner of Broadway and Maryland last night on a charge of intoxication. He was lodged in tank No. 1.

BROTHERHOOD OF CHURCHES TO MEET

Arrangements are being made for the annual meeting of the Federated Brotherhoods of the churches of Glendale. It will be held on Tuesday evening, Oct. 17, in the Christian church.

At 6:30 a banquet will be served by the ladies of the church in the social hall. At 7:30 an election of officers for the coming year will be held, followed by an address by one of California's greatest jurist, Judge Benjamin Bledsoe. There will be special music under the direction of a committee composed of T. A. Wright, H. A. Wilson, W. A. Horn. Other committees are J. H. Gamsey, Rev. W. E. Edmonds on speaker; H. E. Fry, H. A. Wilson and W. A. Horn on nominations; W. B. Kirk and W. F. Tower on publicity, and George Daugherty on tickets. This will be for men only and open to all the men of Glendale.

PRESBYTERIAN RALLY DAY SET

Rally day exercises for the Tropico Presbyterian Sunday school will be held tomorrow at the church at 9:45. They will open with songs followed by a talk by Mrs. Frank Ashton, who has been giving a series of Bible lessons.

Scholars will then disperse to their classes to reassemble later when Herbert Bruck will give a violin solo. Pupils in the primary department under Mrs. S. E. Brown will give a program of songs and recitations, and there will be graduation exercises for the 9-year-olds. They will be welcomed into the main department of the school by Edgar Fry, superintendent. This will end the rally except for dismissal by the pastor, Rev. James F. Winnard.

Following the Sunday school at 11 o'clock, there will be a family day service at which the fathers and mothers will be accompanied by their children, the pastor having assured his congregation that all the babies will be welcome even if they do cry.

KFAC BUREAU IS ORGANIZED HERE

The KFAC Lyceum Bureau will open its new offices October 2, in Room 3 of The Press Building, 224 South Brand Boulevard; telephone, Glendale 98.

This bureau will be able to furnish vocal soloists, orchestras, readers, monologists, instrumental soloists, classic dancers and jazz entertainers for clubs, banquets, weddings and other social functions. The artists who will be obtainable through this office are all KFAC artists.

This bureau will be able to furnish talent at a reasonable rate. Tex Rogers, who has full charge of the bureau has had a wide stage experience as a professional singer in many large productions and also as a stage director has taken a great interest in local musicians to enable the public to become better known to those artists. Mr. Rogers was connected for several years with several well-known opera companies such as "The Firefly," "Gilbert & Sullivan" operas and the famous "Chu Chin Chow Company." He has made his home in Glendale for the past year and expects to make this his permanent residence.

All KFAC artists' photographs will appear in the window of the Glendale Music Company in the near future. Watch for your favorite artist.

628 BEST BABIES ARE NOW ENTERED IN THE BIG SWEEPSTAKE RACE

BIG BILL TONIGHT AT THE GLENDALE THEATRE

Lopa's string orchestra, offering some delightful "instrumental and singing," will be the headline feature act on the big new vaudeville bill that is booked to open at the Glendale theatre today.

Ardo, billed as the "loose-legged juggler," with a few funny sayings, also will add to the merit of the program. Keating and Ross have a comedy singing, talking and dancing travesty which they entitle "The Younger Generation." William Bronzer has a monologue with songs which he entitles "He Blotted His Copy Book." It is packed full of laughs. The bill includes also "Echoes of Switzerland," a team of accomplished yodlers from the Orpheum circuit.

"Rough Shod," the latest picture produced by Fox with Charles Jones in a dashing Western role, is announced for opening at the Glendale theatre tonight.

The author of the story is Chas. Selzer—several of whose stirring tales of ranch life were screened by Fox a couple of years ago. The two girls who figure with equal prominence in the story are portrayed by Helen Ferguson and Ruth Renick.

Straight slippery walls and slimy rocks; green water and croaking frogs; a mocking circlet of blue sky overhead but around all a grim, gripping horror of boding evil filled with the mingling of half-heard whisperings. That is what it means to be thrown into a well!

Not an ideal situation for a pretty girl to find herself in, knowing that the man she loves is being slowly poisoned by a half-crazed doctor. Yet that is the situation in which Mary Miles Minter as Rosalie Beckwith, a young newspaper woman, finds herself in "The Heart Specialist," a Realart picture for Famous Players-Lasky which is coming to the Glendale theatre next Sunday and Monday.

How she escapes, and the thrilling manner in which she brings matters to a satisfactory conclusion make a dramatic picture.

ENTERTAINED ON BOARD PACIFIC MAIL STEAMER

On one of the afternoons this week Mr. and Mrs. John C. Cate of this city were entertained at luncheon with a group of friends on the "Venezuela," one of the liners of the Pacific Mail Steamship company, docked at Wilmington, and just in from New York.

Mr. Cate, who is one of the freight agents of the line, says that the amount of freight handled at the harbor last year was four times that of the year previous.

FOSTER BRIDGE CLUB MEETS AT INN

The Foster Bridge club met yesterday at the Broadway Inn. Following a delightful luncheon, members present went to the home of Mrs. Mabel Rudy, 437 South Central avenue, where an enjoyable afternoon was spent in playing bridge.

Members present were Mrs. Helen I. Campbell, Mrs. T. C. Cooper, Mrs. William Hunter, Mrs. A. H. Lapham and Mrs. Mabel Rudy.

First prize was won by Mrs. T. C. Cooper.

TROPICO PRESBYTERIANS HOLD DISCOVERY PARTY

Members of the Tropico Presbyterian Christian Endeavor had a very jolly party, a "Discovery Party" at the church Friday evening.

The idea was suggested by the nearness of the anniversary of the discovery by Columbus of San Salvador on October 12, 1492.

The evening was devoted to games suggestive of the discovery period and the young discoverers sailed in for a good time. They were divided into three groups assigned to "The Pinta," "The Nina" and the "Santa Maria."

The first discovery feature was the name and the color of the eyes of each ship-mate, all of which was entered in the ship's log.

The second game was the digging for buried treasure in dishes of sand provided the crew of each ship. The prize for discovering the greatest number of pennies went to the "Santa Maria" captained by Miss Nancy St. Clair.

The third game, discovering Los Angeles, was played by members of the crew blindfolded, each one pinning upon a large map a ship in the place imagined to be Los Angeles. This prize was won by Margaret Richardson.

Other events of the evening were two games "Hidden Mysteries" and "Pale Faces and Indians," and a relay race between members of the crews of the different ships.

A song fest and the serving of refreshments completed the entertainment.

Misses Evelyn Sullivan and Gertrude Ashton were responsible for the decoration of the social hall, Norma Wallace and Dorothy Thompson for refreshment provisions, and John Server for the carrying out of the game program. About thirty were present.

LEMON FANCHONETTE

CLASS ELECTIONS SCHEDULED FOR OCT. 3-4

Politics came temporarily into the limelight at the high school as a result of the announcement by Principal Moyse that class elections will be held Tuesday and Wednesday of next week at the roll call periods.

Groups of boys and girls were seen yesterday on the campus discussing the merits of their favorite candidates. The candidates announced up to date are popular at the school and judging from the heated arguments heard the past week the official returns will probably disclose narrow margins for the victors.

Here are the candidates: Senior president, Allan Pollock and Harold Heacock; Sophomore president, "Red" Ryan and Lee Shannon. The candidates for the Junior and Freshmen classes have not been announced.

RIVERA CLUB TO MEET MERCHANTS ON SUNDAY

"Rube" Ellis' Rivera club, a Los Angeles aggregation, will meet the Glendale Merchants' Sunday at San Fernando and Park.

The Rivera nine is coming to Glendale with the intention of avenging a defeat administered to them by the local squad a few weeks ago, but according to Manager Cobb "it can't be did" for the Merchants have been adding to their batting force and are showing real class.

The next few games will see the close of the summer league and it is very ligely that Cobb's team will emerge the winner of the Southern California baseball association pennant. Many Los Angeles sport writers have declared the local team the "best bet" in the association.

At the close of the summer season it is the intention of the Merchants' team to enter the winter league.

PURELY PERSONAL

Donald U. Garver of Champaign, Ill., was the dinner guest Friday of Mr and Mrs. N. D. Garver, 435 South Pacific avenue. Mr. Garver stopped in Denver, Salt Lake City and San Francisco on his way out here, but likes Glendale best of all. He has met several former friends from Champaign and expects to make Glendale his future home.

Bayne Beauchamp, son of Mrs. Mary C. Beauchamp of 1214 South Glendale avenue, returned Wednesday night from a six weeks' trip to the Columbia river regions and to Portland, Ore. He reports a wonderful time.

Mr. and Mrs. Morthland of 335 West Dryden street entertained as their guests Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Alliger of Long Beach, Dr. and Mrs. Warren Line of 804 North Brand and Robert J. Corrigan. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Abel Downer of Long Beach were the guests for two days this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Clover, 947 North Louise street. All are former residents of Aurora, Ill.

Mrs. C. F. Prine of 630 North Maryland avenue is improving after undergoing a major operation some seven weeks ago. She now has a practical nurse in place of the trained one and hopes to be about soon.

Dr. and Mrs. Gerhard Kaemmerling of Orange street and Lexington drive, and their house guest, Mrs. E. T. Webb, mother of Mrs. Kaemmerling, from Webb City, Mo., will motor to Riverside Sunday and take dinner at the Mission Inn.

Luncheon guests today at the home of Mrs. James A. Belyea, 920 South Central avenue, were Mrs. Gerhard Kaemmerling and her mother, Mrs. E. T. Webb of Webb City, Mo.

Mrs. Ida Karr of 1150 North Louise street entertained at dinner Thursday evening Dr. and Mrs. Gerhard Kaemmerling and Mrs. Kaemmerling's mother, Mrs. E. T. Webb of Webb City, Mo.; James Smith of New York City, Mrs. Frank Black or Kansas City, and Ed Hewitt.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lampert are leaving today by train for Burlingame, near San Francisco, to visit their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cristy, and their first grand-daughter. They expect to be away two weeks and to have a royal good time.

PUBLIC IS INVITED TO RED CROSS CONFERENCE

All interested citizens are invited to attend the Regimental Conference of the American Red Cross which will be held October 2 and 3 in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, Red Cross Headquarters, 100 South Raymond avenue, Pasadena. Many practical problems of the Red Cross will be discussed.

Dr. Robert Freeman will make the opening address at 9:30 a. m. Monday. During the first session officers of the Pasadena Post of the American Legion will explain how successfully co-operation between the Legion and the Red Cross has been carried on. The speaker at luncheon will probably be Dr. John Willis Baer.

The noon session Tuesday will be held at the new plunge in Alhambra, where the city manager has invited the delegates to witness an exhibition of life-saving and first-aid.

DR. MITCHELL OPENS OFFICE

Dr. Hugh B. Mitchell of Philadelphia has located in Glendale and has opened dental offices at 125 North Brand, next to the T. D. L. theatre. Dr. Mitchell has spent several winters in California, but did not visit Glendale until a short time ago. When he saw the rapid growth being made and other advantages here not possessed by other towns and cities he came to the conclusion that Glendale was the town for him. Dr. Mitchell was the family dentist of the late President William McKinley, and was for years a member of the Dental College of Philadelphia.

C. H. KIRKMAN IS NEW SCOUT CHIEF OF TROOP NO. 3

Popular Stationer Introduced at Central Rally

Who could resist 25 live-wire boy scouts? At least C. H. Kirkman, of the stationery store bearing his name, could not, and at the big rally meeting held last evening at the Central avenue school he promised the boys to undertake the management of troop No. 3 and agreed to take the job as scoutmaster.

George B. Karr, of the Baldwin Shirt company, is the man who is to be given the credit for selecting Mr. Kirkman, and the scouts are sure glad that they have such a live-wire on their troop committee.

Mr. Kirkman has been a resident of Glendale for several months and has established a very fine stationery store at 141 S. Brand boulevard. He is a member of the chamber of commerce and Rotary club and is well qualified for his new responsibilities.

Besides having a genuine interest in the boys, Mr. Kirkman is a real sportsman and loves the out-of-doors.

Scouts Clifford Walcott and Robert Eastman, who represented the Verdugo Hills district at the older scouts conference at Sacramento, told of their experiences and the things they saw.

Moving pictures furnished by Scout Eugene Kille proved to be very popular with the scouts. The troops will meet every Friday evening at the Central avenue school from 7:30 to 9 o'clock.

'BURNING SANDS' CLOSES TONIGHT AT T. D. & L.

If you haven't already seen "Burning Sands," the George Melford production featuring Milton Sills and beautiful Wanda Hawley, at the T D & L Theatre, then you'll have to go tonight for it is the last times it will be shown at Ralph Allan's popular playhouse.

"Burning Sands" is a red hot flaming answer to "The Sheik," the great desert for a background and the most alluring love-romance seen in a long, long time. Remember—tonight is the last of "Burning Sands."

SUNDAY'S PROGRAM

A drama of the Great Northwest, where big men acomplish things in a big way, has been transferred to the screen in the form of "Kindred of the Dust," an Associated First National attraction produced by Raoul A. Walsh, and which tomorrow is coming to the T D & L Theatre for an engagement of two days.

STATUS OF STATE HIGHWAY BODY QUESTIONED

Southern California Auto Club Brings Test Suit in Speed Case

Is the state highway commission a judicial or semi-judicial body, or is it a judicial body of any sort?

This is the question the Auto Club of Southern California is to bring up in the superior court in Los Angeles next week when it takes up the case of Fred F. McLain of South Pasadena, charged with exceeding the speed limit on the Colorado bridge. The Auto club is to make a test case of this, in order to have the court decide if the state highway commission is to continue in the right of using its discretion in placing the speed limit over bridges.

"As it is now," Judge Cruzan stated, "when a bridge is in need of repairs, instead of hurrying up repairs, the state highway commission lowers the rate of speed over the bridge."

The Auto club is to test the constitutionality of the act, allowing the state highway commission to exert discretionary powers, as according to state law, only judicial and semi-judicial heads are given discretionary powers. The legal battle will center around the point of whether or not the state highway commission is a judicial or semi-judicial body.

Should the court decide that it is not, the right to place the speed limit over bridges will automatically be removed from the list of powers granted the commission. The test case is expected to attract wide-spread interest in the entire state.

Fred F. McLain, whose case has been taken for the test, will be taken into custody upon the day to be decided later, and committed to the county jail. Immediately, he will be taken out on a writ of habeas corpus, and taken to court, where the legal representatives will seek to untangle the issue. Judge Cruzan explained that the proceeding must be done by means of issuing a habeas corpus, and that such a document can only be issued for a person who is given a jail sentence. The proceedings will start at the city hall, after which McLain will be conducted to the county jail.

GLENDONIANS GAIN MEMBERS

Many people on the streets of Glendale wondered "what it was all about" when they saw three of Glendale's most popular young men parading Broadway and Brand boulevard at an early hour last night, garbed in old clothes and some with very little clothes. The mystery was solved when they saw members of the Glendonian club following the 'tramps' with husky stickers in hands. They proved to be George Baxter, Harry Merriken and Al Beidy, who were being initiated as Glendonians.

FAVORITE FOWLING PIECES BROUGHT TO LIGHT

Burbank Nimrods Ready for Opening of Duck Season Sunday

Burbank nimrods will set the alarm clock early Sunday morning, as the duck season opens at 5:18 o'clock Sunday morning, and the opening of the duck hunting season is always a signal for action among local as well as other hunters.

Many lakes that can be reached by rail or motor abound in this state.

With the vast interior valleys of the state fuller of natural water than in years, the west-side overflow of the San Joaquin again is a fact, while Tulare has inundated many thousand acres of ripe winter wheat once more. Mountain lakes and reservoirs are brimful, bearing heavy crops of sago pondweed, ruppia and similar aquatic duck-food plants. On the whole, the outlook for the migratory species of duck hunter is brighter than any that the Fish and Game commission has analyzed for at least five years past.

Uniform reports of sprig plenty everywhere, indicate a heavier early flight; also that the first comers hung around longer than usual. The young birds can hardly fail to be uniformly fat and tender as the late rains made a heavy grain crop, leaving behind gleanings of barley that are likely to last until the first soaking rains sprout the field feed generally.

Such a cannonade as never heretofore confronted the bewildered young birds, even in this Southern California of ever-increasing sporting interest, is assured Sunday morning at the zero hour of 5:18, which the state authorities announce their intention to go the limit in enforcing. Early shooting is a species of selfishness whose cost is unjustly inflicted upon the law-abiding sportsman, while less likely to ruin his first day than after the birds undergo their baptism of fire and learn that all shotguns are loaded. There will be officers afield in all the duck-shooting centers prepared to insist upon the exact minute.

In some particularly congested spots, such as Baldwin lake in Bear valley, special efforts will be made to prevent spoiling of the sport for everybody by law violations on the part of a few.

EAGLE ROCK TO HAVE NEW BANK

Eagle Rock is to have a new bank and the progress toward the completion of the organization is developing rapidly. The personnel of the new bank is being drafted along strictly modern lines. The board is to embrace men whose activities are broadly different, each being a specialist in a particular line of endeavor that will be indigenous to the requirements of the people of the Eagle Rock district.

The bank is to be operated along lines that will make it an information center as well as a community unit for the protection of money and securities. The officers of the new bank will be as follows:

Arthur A. Frambach, president, is a native of Wisconsin, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, son of the late Colonel Henry A. Frambach, who was a prominent banker and manufacturer in Michigan before coming to Los Angeles. Mr. Frambach is at present manager and part owner of the Ansonia apartments of Los Angeles and was for seven yeasr prior to his coming to Los Angeles a member of the board of directors of the Cheboygan County Savings bank of Cheboygan, Mich.

Guy Martin will be cashier. At the present time he is cashier of the State Savings bank at Beloit, Iowa, an institution which he helped to organize in 1913. The fourteen years prior to his coming to Beloit were devoted to the interests of the Avoca State bank of Avoca, Iowa. Mr. Martin is arranging his affairs and will shortly become a resident of Eagle Rock.

W. H. Riead, assistant cashier, is at the present time manager of Dunlap Brothers, who operate an extensive chain of stores with headquarters at Muskogee, Okla. Mr. Riead is an energetic young business man with banking as well as commercial experience and he, also, will become a permanent resident of our city.

Directors of the new bank will be H. E. Barnum, an Eagle Rock resident, whose public spirit and enterprise have done much for this entire district.

Geo. E. Mattison, assistant title officer of the California Title Guaranty company, is a member of the Eagle Rock city council and president of the Sunrise Civic club.

L. M. Maynard is a long-time resident of our city, well known in financial and commercial circles, and one whose research work in the field of business is broadly recognized.

Gilbert F. Wyvell, a native of Minnesota, a graduate of the University of North Dakota, with a degree of L. L. B., has been engaged in the practice of law in Los Angeles for the past sixteen years with offices in the Van Nuys building. Mr. Wyvell's interest and faith in Eagle Rock is evidenced in the fact that through his institution, the Los Angeles Securities company, he has in less than one year built and sold homes in this section, the aggregate value of which is in excess of $100,000.

Little Travelers on U. S. Liners get Health building exercises.

Kiddies in "Gym" of S. S. George Washington

New York A sea voyage is a health investment, providing the traveller avails himself or herself of the opportunities for strengthening stamina and awakening jaded organs to their normal functioning, according to the supervising surgeon of the United States Lines. The reports of the surgeons on the various vessels composing the fleet are indicative of the desire of American travellers to obtain full health benefits from the voyage to Europe.

The officials of the big line, in keeping with many innovations recently installed, are seeking to make the sea voyage a health restorer and body builder. The officials maintain that in the course of a trans-Atlantic crossing the traveller by sincere and systematic application to a course of exercise will step ashore a renovated being.

The United States Lines, in keeping with its health policy, has appointed aboard the larger vessels of its fleet gymnasium attendants who are experts in helping folk to better health through indulgence in proper exercise. All the passengers, from the children up, may avail themselves of the instructions and advice of the gymnasium attendants, and every trip finds more and more voyagers taking advantage of the health investment offered them by the line.

Children travelling on the vessels are quick to take advantage of the gymnasium attractions, and are formed into classes in which they are given setting-up exercises and are instructed in the use of some of the more mild forms of the developing machines. The children are taught how to breathe properly and are set out on long walks around the decks. Not only are the little ones greatly benefitted by the exercise, but they are kept amused, giving their elders an opportunity for games and social affairs that might otherwise be denied them. Parents are warmly appreciative of the health training given their little ones, for they realize that the idea of proper exercise once instilled in the youthful mind will ever remain.

The gymnasium attendants on the steamships George Washington and America are kept busy from early morning until late at night supervising the exercises of the little folk and grown-ups. Young women, anxious to preserve their figures are most enthusiastic over the exercises prescribed for them and religiously follow the instructions of the gymnasium man. As a consequence of the exercising aboard ship, knickerbockers and bloomers are becoming a necessary part of the wardrobe of women travellers and are worn not only when they exercise in the gymnasium, but during the long walks about the decks.

With the proper course of exercise, supplemented with salt baths and plenty of time spent in walking the decks in the open air, the health supervisors of the United States Lines maintain that travellers cannot but benefit materially by a trip. On the vessels of the fleet not equipped with gymnasiums the deck sports afford opportunities for beneficial exercises and special stewardesses supervise the play and games of the wee folk.

THE REFERENDUM

(EDITOR'S NOTE:—This column will be devoted to signed propaganda relating to the various measures on the state ballot in November and other matter of like nature. Responsibility for statements herein lies with the authors whose names are signed. The space is limited.)

Judge Emmet Seawell led the field of four candidates contending for the two long term vacancies as associate justice of the supreme court at the August primary election according to the official tabulation of votes just completed by Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan.

The official figures, which were not carried in the news dispatches and have not heretofore been published, were received today by W. C. ("Cap") Holliway from the secretary of state's office. They show that Judge Seawell polled a vote of 287,512, leading Judge W. A. Sloane by 10,699 votes, Judge Frank H. Kerrigan by 19,867 and Judge Charles A. Shurtleff by 51,725. The official vote follows:

Seawell, 287,512; Sloane, 276,813; Kerrigan, 267,645; Shurtleff, 235,787.

All four candidates will be on the November ballot, when the two highest will be elected.—Seawell's Headquarters, San Francisco.

With the dove of peace and the chord of harmony hovering over the convention of California Republicans and efficiency and economy the dominant plank of the platform, the G. O. P. have started their march to the November election in a solid phalanx.

At the convention in Sacramento last week Friend W. Richardson, republican candidate for governor, and Hiram W. Johnson, republican candidate for U. S. senator, urged that the republican candidates be supported right down the line. Governor Stephens in his address to the convention urged that harmony predominate and was sincere in requesting a solid front in the election of Richardson and Johnson.

Senator Johnson's appeal for party unity met with a spontaneous approval at the hands of the convention. He said:

"It is the duty of every member of the Republican State Central Committee to support the ticket from Friend W. Richardson down. And it is the duty of every member of the county central committees to do likewise. Let us work together so that our State may continue to be the premier progressive state of the Union."

When Richardson appeared before the convention he was given an enthusiastic reception. After urging harmony within the ranks of the party, he said:

"I went before the voters on a platform of economy with efficiency in State government.

"On this platform my candidacy was approved.

"I propose to continue my campaign on the issue of economy and pledge myself to save the people millions of dollars, to cut off all unnecessary expenses, to abolish unnecessary offices, and to give the people an efficient and business-like administration.

"I wish to emphasize that I will accomplish this cost saving without hampering any progressive, humane, educational or benevolent State function.

"The plank on child labor which says 'Two decisions of the Supreme Court which have nullified the efforts of Congress to regulate and prohibit child labor, render it necessary that a remedy be found of nation-wide extent to prevent the exploitation of children.' We pledge our members in Congress to do whatever may be deemed essential for the protection of children; and if the result can be attained in no other way, to the adoption of a constitutional amendment giving to Congress power to regulate or prohibit the employment of children,' voices my sentiments."

The Republican platform is very firm in its endorsement of Friend W. Richardson for Governor. It reads:

"Friend W. Richardson has been nominated for Governor by a great majority of the Republicans of this State. He has been a faithful, intelligent and zealous servant of the public in offices of trust and responsibility. His long, consistent and effective advocacy of humanitarian measures, as citizen, journalist and public officer, place him in the front rank of those who have unselfishly and sincerely championed the rights of mankind. He has a thorough knowledge of the finances of the State government. The Republican Party, through Friend W. Richardson, pledges itself to an economical and efficient administration, to such a substantial reduction of the present heavy cost of government as may be consistent with the contiuance of those progressive policies which he has helped to formulate and that have done so much for the welfare of the people of California.

"Friend W. Richardson possesses an independent, thoughtful and analytical mind, capable of understanding and meeting all of the grave responsibilities and duties that devolve upon the Governor. He is not the representative of any class or group, but is a true representative of the spirit and ideals of the republican party and of the great majority of the people of California, whom he has served so well in the past. He deserves the support of all citizens."

Mr. Richardson said that he recognized clearly that agriculture is the basic fundamental industry of California and that on its prosperity depends the ultimate well-being of the State.

The convention was a harmonious one in every respect and, according to the expressions of the delegates, the party has been solidly cemented for a united march to the polls in November.

RICHARDSON FOR GOVERNOR NEWSPAPER MEN'S COMMITTEE.

The Low Down on Real Estate

By JOHN BRECK

How often is a vice merely a virtue run into the ground? That's the only trouble with a mole. He is the soul of industry—but he lacks discretion. Of course his blindness is the direct outcome of his occupation; it should awake our understanding sympathy. But to judge by results is the way of the world.

Why doesn't he confine his energies to that bane of gardens, the golden glow, instead of worming his erring way down your border of primroses? True, he is cleaning out the grubs. Still, the grubs would only half kill them; they must have a bit of top to lay their eggs in before they finish their brief fling on the tiniest of moth wings, whereas he turns up the plants' thready little toes to dry in the air with fatal results unless you catch them on the droop and tuck them in again.

On the other hand, he does you services where no one can rival him. Do you lay planks for garden paths to be taken up for the spring plouging? They, too, are no unmixed blessing; they stable your toad and a valuable collection of lizards, but they also house a shocking assortment of snails and slugs and crickets which crawl in as soon as the ground is too hard for Uncle Hopper to get after them. The mole runs his galleries from end to end and conscientiously patrols them. How different from the gopher, who is a gnawer himself on a bigger scale than any of them!

No, there's not a lazy bone in his busy scoop-shovels. But no contract can hold him. Even if you are resigned to your bargain he won't stay within bounds, and when your neighbor mourns the demise of his Banksia rose you reflect sadly on how many hard feelings live stock can cause, and choose between them.

At least, I tried to choose. I put the nozzle of the garden hose down one of his runways and stationed the dog at the other end. I watched while her eagerness ebbed to patience, with a puzzled cock of the ear when I came to see if the hose was still in action. I computed the barrels I had run in while no mole appeared, no moist patch signified another hole in the arid surface of the soil, no stream bubbled up to set my cellar awash. It was astounding.

Then the Old-Timer happened along. "Sho," he sniffed. "I thought you knew suthin' 'bout readin' sign. Don't you savvy no mole'll ever take to diggin' less'n there's a good pebble bottom under your ground to drain it off so the spring rains can sluice 'em out? Mole land is healthy livin'. But you could run in the ocean without botherin' him. Though I reckon it's a good way of sub-irrigating at that."

GATEWAY GROWS INTO LITTLE CITY

Up-to-Date Merchants Form Market For All Supplies

A hurried trip through the Gateway district yesterday afternoon disclosed the fact that a little city within a city is fast developing there. With an up-to-date grocery, meat market, drug store and hardware store to supply vital necessities of the household all doing a flourishing business and new residences arising on every hand, property is spelled with a great big P. One vital want has lately been filled by Chris Orff's barber shop, lately established in his one-story new brick building, and James R. Nash, who has been in the oil business for thirty years, is preparing to settle down and open an up-to-date store for the sale of men's and women's furnishings and shoes, in one of the rooms of the same building, while the new Gateway Bank will occupy the other. A dry goods and milinery store is needed next, and a dentist could be accommodated, also. The business men down there have one grievance. They say the big motor busses speed along past their stores at such a pace that it is dangerous for everybody, and they fairly shake the earth as they tear along.

ROLAND SQUARE IS SELLING WELL

Roland Square, which is being placed on the market by the J. R. Grey Realty company, is selling very rapidly, and is now more than half sold. This is a phenomenal record, when the fact is taken into consideration that this is the season when real estate usually moves slowly.

A. L. Rigdon will commence 12 houses on this tract next week. Messrs. Nelson Fisher and other wide-awake business men are also going to build homes there. Mr. Totman, manager for the Chaffee store here, has purchased two lots and will build a home.

Work of putting in gas and water mains will start Monday, and it now looks as though Roland Square would spring into as great popularity as any subdivision yet placed on the market. Elsewhere in an advertisement is stated that the price is to be advanced on lots and the public is advised to get in "on the ground floor."

WINTER TRAVEL TO CALIFORNIA DEFENDED

Erroneous reports to the effect that winter travel to California is beset with hardships almost unbelievable will be combatted in a widespread campaign to be launched by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Preparations for winter touring to California are being hastened in the East at this time, it is reported by the club's touring bureau, and approximately 8300 letters of inquiry have been received from the East this year asking if it is true that the transcontinental roads are impassable in the winter.

That southern routes are open for the entire year, winter and summer, these roads leading directly into Southern California, will be the burden of the Auto club's campaign, it is stated.

During the winter a motorist may tour from the Atlantic seaboard to Southern California in from eighteen to twenty-one days, it is stated. Only severe storms in the East, over which Southern California has no control, will cause any delay this year in the progress of eastern motoring parties to the West.

The routes which will carry the heaviest travel are the National old trails, the Bankhead-Borderland route, the Sunkist Trail and the Arrowhead Trail, tapping Idaho, the Dakotas, Wyoming, Montana and nearby states.

Motorists in Southern California planning to travel eastward are warned to get in touch with the Auto club touring bureau just before starting, in regard to equipment, gas stations, hotels and camp grounds en route. The camps on the routes mentioned are open during the winter.

TOMATO SALAD

A delicious salad may be made in early summer from sliced tomatoes, laid on lettuce leaf, and sprinkled generously with minced baby onions and nuts. Serve with boiled dressing, mayonnaise or French dressing.

IN THE GLORY OF HER FAITH MRS. GOODE PASSES

Living Hymn of Trust Is Her Memory to Her Children

Mrs. Mary E. Goode, who went home to her Savior she loved so well, was a native of Iowa. She was educated in that state's institutions, specializing in music, singing, and served as organist for a lengthy term in her home church.

She was mother of three children and was universally known as a mother of one standard for all and srystan purity in her teaching. Her spare moments were spent in ministering to the poor and distressed, never failing in bringing the largest sympathy to the smallest trouble.

Without speaking, she radiated the fragrance of a violet. Ill health brought her to California eleven years ago, where she resided with her children until special attention was needed.

Great tribute is due Mrs. Haines and Mrs. Anderson, who gave such sweet, faithful care in her hours of patient suffering.

Her Savior was her constant companion, bringing that peace of mind which passeth all understanding. Her perfect trust in God and Christ-like patience will be a living song in the hearts of her children.

Second Corinthians, fifth chapter, eighth and ninth verses, were especially precious to her.

Rev. H. McCall Goodwin, 608 S. Adams, had charge of the sweet funeral service. Mrs. Gibbons sang, in accordance with her mother's wish:

As the sun was sinking to rest
From the weary toils of the day,
It paused a bit in its going
The last good-nights to say.

And as it kissed the flowers,
And praised their beauty and blooming
It rested in sweet benediction
On a mother patient in suffering.

Those beautiful hands softly pressed in prayer,
A God-blessed with a peace divine,
Her Guardian Angel from Heaven came,
And bore her Home for all time.

SIXTY PUPILS AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH GRADUATION

Commencement exercises were held last night at Central Christian church, when about fifty Sunday school pupils received their diplomas. The exercises were held in the Intermediate assembly room of the church. Floyd Mercer, superintendent of the school, presented all diplomas.

The program opened by the congregation singing, and the song was followed by a prayer led by the pastor, Rev. C. A. Cole.

Five members of the cradle roll department were graduated into the primary. Mrs. Cram is the cradle roll superintendent, and she presented her graduates to Mrs. Harry Marple, superintendent of a newly created beginners' department.

Miss Laura Wilford Brown, superintendent of the primary department, presented her twelve graduates to Mrs. C. A. Cole, superintendent of the junior department. The primary department, led the congregation in "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Cole extended a hearty welcome to the primaries.

The juniors sang "Jesus Was a Child Like Me." This was followed by an exercise given by the first year group on "The Parables of Jesus." Bible spelling was given by the first year boys and was followed by a map drill by the second year group. The third year group presented "Traveling the Journeys of the Children of Israel." Doris Cole, a fourth year student, sang a solo, and an essay on the Bible was given by another fourth year pupil.

This program was followed by the introduction of the junior graduates to the Intermediate department, and their welcome by Mrs. H. T. Stevens, superintendent of the Intermediates. This department gave their yell, and one of the members, Miss Dorothy Young, gave a piano solo. The Intermediates then gave a Bible drill and Miss Ruth Cox followed with a vocal solo. The promotion of the four year graduates into the Senior department took place, and they were welcomed by Mrs. A. A. Smith, superintendent of the Senior department.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

CHARLES THOMAS NOWELL.

Funeral services for Charles Thomas Nowell, who passed away on Thursday at the age of 31 years, will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Chapel of Pulliam-Kiefer & Eyerick. The American Legion, Glendale Post No. 127, will have charge of the services. Rev. Calderwood and Rev. Preston officiating. Interment will take place at Fonduiac, Wis.

CHARLES L. KENSILL.

Charles L. Kensill passed away this morning at a local sanitarium. He was 18 years of age and was born in Philadelphia, Pa. He had made his home in Glendale for three months and in California since June.

He is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kensill, and two brothers, William H., Jr., and John Kensill of Glendale, and two sisters, Mrs. Harriet Foley of Philadelphia, and Miss Sarah N. Kensill of Glendale.

Funeral services will be announced later. Pulliam-Kiefer & Eyerick in charge.

During a lecture an authority on economics mentioned the fact that in one country the men outnumbered the women and added humorously:

"I can therefore recommend ladies to that part of the world."

A young woman seated in one of the front rows got up in great indignation and was leaving the room rather noisily, whereupon the lecturer remarked:

"I did not mean that it need be done in such a hurry as that."

IT WILL PAY

Tag Your Enthusiasm for Glendale

They're bringing home the bonus money today.

The final big, whole-hearted drive for the electrification of the Glendale avenue line is on.

The much-talked-of Tag Day is here, and the workers are on the job like a swarm of bees. If every person in Glendale is not tagged it will not be the fault of the workers.

The responsibility of every person doing his bit toward securing this much needed line for Glendale rests with the person himself.

There are all kinds of tags and plenty of workers to apply them.

If you want to rest easy and enjoy a full night's sleep tonight, you had better get your tag.

No true Glendalian will be able to sleep until he has his little tag.

Glendale should be and is too big for any "side of town" feeling today.

It has too long served to retard the growth of this city. It is no longer with us.

It is up to the whole city to pull together.

No better time could be found to begin that pulling than right now—in this drive for the electrification of the Glendale avenue line.

It needs only one grand, big boost to put this proposition over.

The very fact that all hands took part today should bury "old man 'Side of Town'" deeper than ever.

Truths in Epigram

Books instruct us calmly; they wait the peace of each man's capacity; stay for his want of perception; go backward and forward with him at his wish; and furnish inexhaustible repetitions.—Brydges.

You will never have perfect men until you have perfect circumstances. —Plato.

ANOTHER EX-KING

Constantine is said to have renounced the throne of Greece. Doubtless he did this under terrific pressure. He is not the sort of man willing to doff the purple. In the war he had to leave the country, seeking refuge near the kaiser, his relative by marriage. His whole sympathy was with the kaiser. He was under the thumb of his wife, sister of Hohenzollern. After the war he was permitted to go back to the throne. He landed on it when for a brief instant it had seemed to cease tottering. Immediately he began to stir up fresh trouble, sending an army against the Turks, who promptly rallied and chased his troops afar in panic rout. But Constantine had not put himself in the way of being chased. He had remained in what he deemed the security of Athens. Next his own people, disgusted with him, carried the war to the palace gates. They had lost all confidence in Constantine, and let him understand their feelings. Then he quit. He has joined the ex-kings, deeming this better than to join the dead ones.

There is some talk that Constantine may find refuge in this country. A rich American widow, who had invested in a Grecian prince, is said to have offered him haven. Here doubtless he would be received in society, and amply supported by the lady who bought her way into his court. His future is not a matter of great importance. As a world figure capable of working serious mischief, he is done. There remains to him the privilege of writing a set of memoirs. Nobody would care to read the volume, but when ex-royalty gets the writing itch, this does not matter.

TAXING EDUCATAION

The president of the California School of Technology, a dignified institution of research, has been in Europe purchasing scientific apparatus. He finds that in his absence congress in its benign effort to add to prosperity and happiness, had placed a tariff of 45 per cent on all such articles. Thus the necessary additions to equipment will cost just this much more than had been expected. President Millikan, a pretty good American himself, is reported as not being particularly edified. Perhaps he forgets for the instant, the added prosperity and happiness in which all share.

It is pleasing, of course, to see purchases made in this country rather than in Europe. The fact is to be remembered, however, that certain delicate instruments employed by advanced scientists in their work of discovery, are not manufactured in the local smithy and machine shop. The local jeweler does not keep them in stock. They have to be obtained at the place in which they are. No internatinoal slight is being put upon home industry. In this particular case the expenses of an institution very necessary to education, are augmented by a considerable sum. The institution is not possessed of boundless resources. All of its income doubtless could be put to more satisfactory purposes than the payment of a customs tax that in reality is not a protection at all. When America makes the instruments demanded, they will be bought by American institutions. When they have to be purchased abroad, because not accessbile elsewhere, it hardly seems fair to fine the purchasers, who in turn, must pass the fine along to the student body.

The greatness and the wisdom of the tariff measure is not being questioned. Only there are spots at which it sticks out with the ostentation of a sore thumb, failing to excite admiration, but imparting a sense of discomfort.

QUEER MEXICAN TACTICS

A Mexican, born in this country, is charged with murder. His victim was a Los Angeles policeman. The slayer was one of a band of criminals, and he killed to avoid arrest. Now he is safe in Mexico. His crime is known to Mexican officials. It has been explained to the president of the republic. The republic is anxious to be recognized by the United States. Yet Mexican authorities, with the assent and approval of President Obregon, not only shield an American murderer, but show a tendency to make a hero of him. Obregon explains that there is no treaty by the terms of which the man may be surrendered. Of course this is a shallow pretense. Mexico has a habit of expelling undesirable aliens. If it so construes its own laws, as to class as desirable, a fugitive and extremely dangerous criminal, perhaps there is nothing to do about it. The fact may be realized, however, that a government conducted on such a plane is not ready for a place in the family of nations.

If Obregon expects to win recognition for his government it must be by demonstrating its fitness rather than making a display of truculency and unfriendliness. To have surrendered this man even in the absence of treaty, would have been a courtesy for which many precedents may be found. Mexico chooses not only to be discourteous, but to throw protection about a desperate criminal. This is a bad advertisement for Mexico, a reflection upon the morals and acumen of the men at the head of the government; and as a plea for recognition, it is worse than nothing.

WELCOME RELIEF

Of the families deprived of their bread-winners by the disaster at Jackson there will be eighteen to which the workmen's compensation law will be a boon. As many of the victims of the mine were single, it may be assumed that the benefits will accrue to most of the dependents. The several families will get checks for from $69 to $83 a month for a period of 240 weeks. So long a period as this will give opportunity for many adjustments. Added to the sums thus received, there have been many signs of a generosity so great that nobody seems to be in danger of privation. Money is pouring in. One New York man sends his check for $1000. Different organizations have forwarded the results of impromptu benefits. Numerous lists of contributions have been instituted and are growing in magnitude. The Red Cross is ready as usual to do its part.

The people of the whole country were stirred by the tragedy of the mine. Day by day they followed the reports of the attempted rescue. They admired the brave comrades of the fated miners as they drove a way into the prison, that proved to be a tomb. Their sympathy with the stricken families was acute, and now it is finding expression. It must be a comfort to the widows to know that the mouths about the table still may be fed, and that though sorrow has entered the home, want is not to follow.

There is not the slightest danger that the work of charity will be overdone, and now when memory is fresh, is the time for doing it.

One may sell shoestrings and buttons and still be a man.

Unworthy Journalism

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The other day the New York World published an interview by Clare Sheridan with Rudyard Kipling, in which he is reported to have said:

Dr. Frank Crane

"America came into the war two years and seven months too late. America forced the allies into making peace at the first opportunity instead of insisting upon finishing in Berlin. America quit the day of the armistice without seeing the thing through.

"They (the Americans) have got the gold of the world, but we have saved our souls.

"Before 1860 America was a nation. America—the real America—died in 1860."

Much discussion has been aroused by this report. It has done a vast deal of harm.

Certain newspapers and politicians do all they can to make trouble between Americans and Englishmen, and such pernicious activity can only be characterized as being utterly vicious, or showing the appalling ignorance of a boy playing with matches around gunpowder.

The New York World has not been numbered among these newspapers. It has done heroic work in sane and constructive journalism. It is one of the most forceful newspapers in the United States. Therefore, coming from the World, the publication of this interview is most amazing.

In the first place, Mrs. Sheridan was guilty of an indiscretion almost criminal in reporting what Kipling said.

In the second place, the indiscretion of the New York World in printing the interview was quite as great.

It may be that the interview was true. Mr. Kipling denies it, but even if it was true it should not have been printed. Every newspaper office contains scandalous information that it has the good taste and self-restraint not to print, because it knows that the consequences would be only evil.

It is almost impossible to calculate the evil consequences of this alleged utterance of Kipling. He is probably the foremost literary man alive; his words will carry as much weight as the words of Lloyd George.

If these words had been uttered by him in a public speech, or in a piece of writing over his own signature, no newspaper could be blamed for reprinting them, but if they were wormed out of him at some time when he was talking indiscreetly and not for publication, they should never have been reported to the public.

A newspaper that feels its responsibility to the public should not indulge in this sort of thing. It is a scoop not to be proud of.

As for Clare Sheridan, we can only indorse the statement that one newspaper made, that she has shown herself to be no gentleman

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON
DISCUSSION CLUB
(Join)

Frederick A. Brown:

"In tonight's paper you deal at some length with the question of whether 'juster' or 'more just' is correct. This discussion under the heading of 'The Right Word' puzzles me. I cannot see how either the one or the other can be correct. Or do you contend that there can be degrees of justness? If the word 'just' has any definite meaning at all, surely a comparative is logically indefensible. Perhaps you will be so good as to express an opinion."

Mr. Nicholson:

The New Standard Dictionary defines "pure" as "guiltless; innocent". Would you not say that "pure" symbolizes a quality that is absolute and complete? However, Kittredge and Farley's "Advanced Grammar" gives "pure, purer, purest." Experience has demonstrated that "pure" is not always an absolute quality as is true in this respect as "pure"? At any rate let me quote from the New Standard Dictionary as follows: "Learn a juster taste; And know that temperance is true luxury. Armstrong—Art of Preserving Health.

Mildred Braunstein:

"Please give your reasons why an apostrophe should or should not be placed after irregulars in the following sentence: 'There has been a marked revival of the republicans' morale since the death of Collins, although several instances are reported of the irregulars voluntarily handing in their arms.' I know that a substantive qualifying a gerund should be in the possessive case, but are there not cases where words separating the substantive from the gerund make it preferable not to use the possessive? I should appreciate your giving an example illustrating my meaning."

Mr. Nicholson:

Correct: . . . of the irregulars' voluntarily handing in their arms. The object of the preposition of is handing in, and not irregulars. Irregulars modifies handing in, and, consequently, should be in the possessive case. Let me quote from James C. Fernald's "A Working Grammar of the English Language": "A participle used as a noun frequently requires a possessive (noun or pronoun) as a modifier . . .; as, 'On the employer's entering suddenly'."

Yesterday's Error

"Coats" and "Suits" should not have been capitalized.

THE LISTENING POST

Soap-boxers and disturbers and malcontents and mob-lawers and others of the ilk speak often lightly and contemptuously of the Constitution.

It is not seldom that we hear some disturber or malcontent or anarchist or fanatic condemn the Constitution to the Limbo of flames,

"To Hell with the Constitution."

* * *

That is easily said.

It takes no high degree of intelligence to voice the sentiment.

It is simple enough to say to Hell with anything or anybody.

Simple and hateful and vulgar.

* * *

The people who say to Hell with the constitution are of the same class who put forth to sea on a ship and say to sink with the life preservers.

For the Constitution is a life preserver.

It is also a liberty preserver

It protects us in our life, liberty and in the pursuit of happiness that our forefathers talked about.

And provided for.

* * *

The ship at sea might spring a leak.

It might breast a furious storm.

It might be driven out of its course on the rocks.

It might strike an uncharted reef.

And the passengers on the ship could come to appreciate the foresight that provided the life preservers.

To enable us to survive the leak or the reef or the storm.

* * *

The Constitution is merely a basic fundamental agreement as to what our individual rights.

That cannot be taken away from us.

It protects the minority against the majority.

And protects the majority against itself.

It makes safe the home, the job and the citizen.

* * *

The autocrat condemns the citizen and confiscates his property.

The Constitutional ruler has limited powers.

And everything he does is with the consent of the people.

As laid down in the Constitution.

If there were no Constitution you might be haled into court.

Condemned out of hand.

Punished arbitrarily.

* * *

The Constitution says you shall not be punished until you have made your defense.

Heard the verdict of a jury of your fellow citizens.

Have been by them found guilty.

And back of that declaration is the whole force and power of the United States.

For your protection.

* * *

And your family.

Your home.

Your business.

Your reputation and opportunity and everything that you have.

All under the aegis of the Constitution.

* * *

So the Constitution is the life preserver and the liberty preserver of the ship of state.

Insuring its safety and the safety of its passengers.

And our youngsters need to know a lot more about it that as merely a sequence of words and sentences.

* * *

They need to know it is the most vital instrument of the government.

More so than the Declaration of Independence.

Which is a splendid business of sentiment and reason.

But the Constitution is the solid body of life and existence.

JAMES W. FOLEY.

O World, Be[nobler]

—By Richard Le Galliene

O world, be nobler, for her s[ake]
If she but knew thee wha[t]
What wrongs are borne, wh[at]
In thee, beneath thy da[rk]

Know'st thou not that her tender heart
For pain and very shame would break,
O world, be nobler, for her sake.

Constantinople Conditions Menace Health of Europe

Constantinople today is the powder magazine of Europe, menacing the health as well as the peace of the world.

A serious epidemic in this cosmopolitan city might have dire consequences to Europe because of its considerable commerce with the west. This is the opinion of the health committee of the League of Nations that has investigated conditions in the Near East. According to advices to the United States public health service, the Rigat Honorable C. Addison, M. P., first minister of health of the British empire, declares that these facts about the Constantinople situation deserve urgent consideration as they are "boldly stated in the report by men who, owing to their scientific training, are careful to avoid exaggerated language."

A plague appeared in Constantinople in 1919 and vigorous action was taken under the supervision of the medical officers of the allied forces. Vaccination against smallpox and prevention inoculation have also been carried out on a very large scale. But Constantinople, with a population of well over a million, still lacks an infectious diseases hospital and a cleansing station which can deal with typhus and relapsing fever, and other sanitary machinery. The water may readily become polluted, and this may produce an epidemic of cholera on a very large scale.

The allied governments, it is declared, have difficult health problems to face in the guarding of the sanitary frontiers of western Europe, which stretch from the Baltic along the lines of the boundaries of western Russia, through the Straits of the Bosporus and the basin of the eastern Mediterranean as far as the Red sea.

"The need of defending this frontier can not make the dramatic appeal of a war between contending armies," says Mr. Addison. "But from the point of view of the health of the western peoples, upon which our future prosperity and contentment depend, it is as imperative that our medical advisers should be given the means to preserve the sanitary cordon as intact as possible, as it was necessary in 1918 to resist the attempt of the Teutonic powers to break through the channel ports."

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

WHO CAN ANSWER THIS?

[Rock Island Argus]

An ex-service man, who had just returned from attending the funeral of a buddy with whom he fought in France, is talking: "I wish you would say something that needs saying. We have just buried a boy who died as the result of his service for his country. We had a soldier and carried the flag. Several hundred people stood there as we passed. Of all that number not more than fifteen uncovered. One little boy, who was helping a man do some work, uncovered and stood at attention as the flag and the body of a soldier passed. The man kept right on working. Tell me why people refuse to honor the flag. Tell me why when a boy who had been out in front of those people defending all they stand for as citizens and Americans, tell me why that boy had given his life for those who stood there, why didn't they offer his body the simple respect that belonged of right to him? What's the matter with people here?"

That's the way the ex-service man in uniform, coming from the grave of his buddy, talked to the editor. There wasn't much to say to him. He might have been assured that it was carelessness—but would that have made the situation better? It might have been argued that they do respect the flag as the symbol of partiotism and nationality. That wouldn't have answered his questions. It wouldn't have salved the hurt he felt—for this man was hurt and outraged in his feelings. He wasn't angry. He was hurt at the apparent indifference of those who a few months before had stood with tears in their eyes and promises on their tongues to see the boys march away in the grandeur of a splendid purpose. That wouldn't have explained the apparent indifference with which they stood without sign to see him carried to his grave beneath the flag. There was nothing to tell him, no answer. Let those who refuse to honor the flag and to uncover as a dead soldier goes by to his grave, let those answer. Why?

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

There are professional ethics concerning which the outsider often must confess himself puzzled. In this connection the code of the doctors comes to mind. Doctors are devoted to the art of healing. One school of healing sometimes declines to regard another as having any claim to recognition. Towards a system that relies upon different methods, its members perhaps show an acute hostility. It is not easy to see why. It is their right to defend their own methods. As they do this, they are likely to assume that others have no right to defend the methods that to those others seem proper. If a man professes to cure without any form of dosage, the ethical doctor merely has a rival in business; and rivalry exists in every business. Merchants are in active competition, but they do not denounce each other. Each strives to present to the public the best bargain. There are ministers of different creeds, all devoted to the spiritual uplifting of their fellows. They do not quarrel. The Methodist, the Baptist and the Presbyterian may exchange pulpits; frequently do so exchange. When they meet on public or private occasions, they meet in perfect amity.

HENRY JAMES

Newspapers hold opinions that clash sharply. They discuss questions of policy touching every phase of life. An editor may deem his opponent in error, but he does not for this feel inclined to denounce him as a charlatan. Indeed, he has respect for an opinion that has the element of sincerity. He concedes, in his inner consciousness, that he himself may be the chap who is off on the wrong foot. He has no desire to suppress the rival publication, or throw his argumentative antagonist out of a job.

The medical profession is a high and honorable and useful calling. It is able to stand on its own record and its intrinsic merits. This does not seem to logically to bar from respectable status and activity, men and women of a different theory and practice.

Earl Spencer, one of the largest landowners of England, is dead. He will be remembered as recently having said he would sell one of his many homes because of poverty and the high cost of living. The statement did not excite profound sympathy. He had more homes than he needed, and of his thousands of acres, much could be put to better use than he ever had put it.

* * *

Mention of the succession of a brother of the late Lord Northcliffe to ownership of the more important Northcliffe papers, recalls some gossip concerning the famous editor. One writer has stated recently that Lord Northcliffe regarded himself as the re-incarnation of Napoleon, and tried to ape the appearance of the little Corsican. This is not to be believed. Northcliffe was not a pot-bellied, under-developed personality, but a large and upstanding figure. He may have possessed certain Napoleonic traits, but he did not resemble Napoleon, and if he thought there was such resemblance, he was the victim of delusion.

Concerning the effort to discourage the presence of hairs in victuals, the full sympathy of the public may be counted upon. But of the lot, Mr. Rockefeller is the only one who displays the sweetness of the memory of first beginning to earn money. No incident, that, but the opening of an epoch.

In papers of the same date as the issue presenting this encomium, an article by Seibold set forth clearly how the Hearst political forces were getting it in the neck in the New York campaign. While this tends to heighten the repute of the correspondent, it may cause Brisbane to be sorry for having been so quick.

Democrats show an inclination to banish the donkey as emblematic of the party. They should not be hasty about this. The donkey and democracy are so identified that to rend them apart would be a severe operation. Why oust the donkey? The creature is shrewd, and has a wallop in either heel. Moreover, its endurance is remarkable, and it is able to subsist a long time on the shortest of rations.

Ticket scalpers are getting into trouble. Caught in selling the return coupons of round trip tickets to California, they are fined and threatened with jail. A passenger who signs a contract with a railroad is in honor bound to abide by the terms, and hence has no right to sell any part of the transportation he purchases. The best way out of the difficulty is for the incoming passenger to buy only a single trip ticket. He'll stay anyhow.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

The most considerate would describe old Pike Hennessy as a hard-finished person. He is so hard he glitters. His eyes are a pale blue, like dove hard little blue marbles we used to have when we were kids, and his voice is rough, and his body is thick and muscular, and his hands are red-haired and corded.

"Of course," said Pike, "I treated him well when he came in the office."

Pike does not always treat people well when they come in the office as I, who am one of his oldest friends, can testify. But he treated this youngster well. He was good looking, well dressed, clever, entertaining, and the son of one of Pike's boyhood friends.

"Dad told me to look you up when I came to town," said the boy.

So Pike gave him dinner and his wife invited some of her young men and women friends to meet him, and they rode him around in expensive cars. Then Pike cashed a check for him. The check came back, and when Pike instituted an inquiry he discovered that the old friend had never had a son. Being a talkative old friend, however, he had chattered away about Pike Hennessy and the young slicker had learned all he needed.

"You were an old fool," I said to Pike, "to accept a man without a scratch of writing to prove his identity."

"Conjarn it!" bellowed Pike, "you can't demand proofs from the son of an old friend. Why, if I sent my hat out to Denver I wouldn't give him a letter to Jimmy. I'd just tell him to introduce himself."

They all fall. The wiser they are the bigger fools they make of themselves. The trouble with these wise men is that they cannot make allowances for other people who have also tumbled. They can find excuses for themselves but never for the other man who makes the same silly mistake.

"Remember the time you cashed that bad check for the woman who said she was Ray Allen's wife?" asked Pike. "I never pulled a bone like that."

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF GLENDALE AUTOMOBILISTS— AND KINDRED INDUSTRIES

GOING MOTORING SOON, MR. MOTORIST? IF SO, PAUSE AND SCAN CAREFULLY THE INFORMATION HERE GIVEN

The Following Road Condition Facts Have Just Been Compiled by Auto Club of Southern California for the Press Saturday Auto "Pink"

The following report on the condition of roads in this and other sections has just been compiled for the automobile section of the Glendale Daily Press by the touring department of the Automobile Club of Southern California:

SAN DIEGO COAST ROUTE

There are a number of detours on this route. Part of the new highway between Tustin and Irvine station has been opened to travel, eliminating the former dirt detour. Southbound travel now follows from Santa Ana to Tustin, then left, following temporary signs to the Irvine ranch; then back to the regular road. On this detour there is approximately two miles of dirt road in fairly good condition and the present detour is not over three miles. Construction on the road between San Juan-Capistrano and the Orange-San Diego line, necessitates a detour on the easterly side beginning about six miles southerly from Serra for a distance of seven-tenths miles. The detour is over dirt road and is being sprinkled and is in good condition.

Laguna to Balboa

We have had quite a lot of calls for information as to whether or not there is a dirt road between Laguna and Corona del Mar and will state that such a road does exist, although it traverses the property of the Irvine ranch and is a private road. In leaving Laguna continue to Laguna cliffs and from that point follow the ocean front all the way to Palisades Tavern. It is necessary to open and close five gates in traveling this distance. The road, due to the fact that it is very little used is considerably rough, has many steep grades at the present time, while dust in places is from 6 to 8 inches deep. One of the employees of the Irvine ranch informed this office that so far this year they had not been instructed to keep people off this road, although no camping is allowed on any of the ranch property. We would not, therefore, recommend this road to the motoring public. From Palisades Tavern, at Corona del Mar, around Balboa bay and to the junction of Newport beach road, can be considered a fair road although rough in places.

Balboa to Huntington Beach

It is absolutely impossible to drive a car by way of the ocean front between Newport and Huntington beach. The motorist is able to go only approximately one-half mile from Newport beach, where the road ends at a small shack. In order to reach Huntington beach from Newport, the best route would be by way of Costa Mesa, Fairview and Talbot.

Huntington to Seal Beach

The road between Huntington beach and Seal beach by way of Sunset is quite rough and chucky and has numerous holes, also it is very sandy in places. This road is rather narrow and in case of passing another car, would be rather difficult on account of the sand.

Santa Monica Coast Road

The construction work on the new Coast boulevard above Santa Monica has necessitated restricting travel to certain hours on that portion of the road above the lower gate which is at present maintained at a point near Santa Ynez canyon, and is moved from time to time as the work progresses. The hours during which travel is permitted to pass these gates are as follows: 1 a. m. to 7 a. m., noon to 1 p. m., and 6 to 7 p. m.

By taking the road known as Santa Ynez canyon road, which is a Los Angeles city street in somewhat rough, but fair condition, this restriction of time may be avoided as Santa Ynez canyon road comes back into the highway at a point above the steam shovel work.

Victorville and Big Bear

The new pavement has been opened to traffic from Victorville to the Adelanto road, a distance of about 11 miles.

The road to Big Bear lake is now open to general public travel and is in good condition.

San Bernardino - El Centro

Construction work in the city of Banning necessitates a 2-mile detour over unpaved city streets in good condition. Detour will be thoroughly signed. Road between Banning and Indio is in good shape except for a rough stretch between Banning and Whitewater, a detour has been necessitated on the north side from Fingal Siding easterly to where the highway leaves the railroad. This detour is single track with frequent turnouts, and is in about the same condition as the balance of the road in this vicinity.

The new pavement has been opened for about three and a quarter miles southerly from Trifolium Canal to a point on the main east and west road into Westmoreland. The country road from end of pavement to Westmoreland is being sprinkled and maintained by the county and is in fair condition.

Ridge Route

Construction work between Saugus and Castaic necessitates detour over old county road, which leaves the state highway near Santa Clara river bridge and enters near Castaic. Detour unpaved but in fairly good shape. Narrow bridge requires careful driving.

Between Saugus and the Santa Clara river bridge care should be taken on account of numerous white barricades protecting repair work.

Frisco Valley Route

North of Merced: Surfacing of pavement south from Franklin school. Traffic is maintained on one-half of pavement at fifteen-minute intervals. Drive slowly. Watchman at each end.

Los Banos - Dos Palos: New pavement open for eleven miles. Traffic detoured south over county road four miles to Dos Palos. Road in good condition and well signed.

Dos Palos to Merced: Road closed on account of paving. Traffic is detoured by way of Los Banos - Newman - Livingston over county roads, well signed.

Pacheco Pass: Pacheco Pass is closed from Merced county line west. Road is open from Los Banos west to county line.

Buena Vista - Keystone: Highway open to travel, except for first three miles for which distance take detour in adjacent fields.

Jamestown to Sonora: State highway closed. At Jamestown, turn south three-quarters of a mile and thence east to Sonora. One short 9 per cent grade.

Clay to Ione: Highway under construction; drive carefully.

Foothill Boulevard

Paving in the city of Azusa necessitates a three-mile detour on parallel road about one-fourth mile north through Azusa. Detour is rough, but passable.

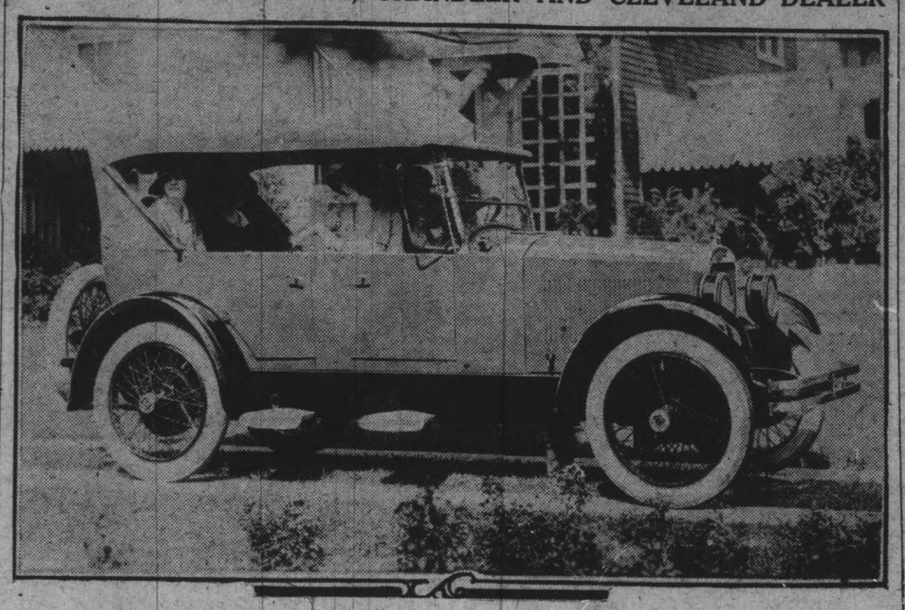
If a business house, piece of merchandise or a man does not progress, retogression is inevitable. This is as true of motor merchandise as in any other line of activity, and upon the improvements of any given thing can be based the actual values of the purchase.

ARTIFICIAL WOOD FOR AUTOMOBILES

A recent invention of an artificial composition of interest to automobile body makers is reported from Australia. The material, which is similar to veneer, is produced from waste fibrous products and other vegetable matter, sawdust being used for the manufacture of cheap grades of the composition.

It is claimed that it can be used for various purposes, including furniture veneers and wall paneling, and can be made to produce excellent marbling effects. It is capable of being bent earily for a variety of commercial purposes, can be worked with tools, sawed bored and planed as freely as wood and takes nails or screws readily.

FIRST PICTURES OF THE NEW CHESTERFIELD MODEL, CLEVELAND CAR, REPRESENTED IN GLENDALE BY FRANK S. POWELL, CHANDLER AND CLEVELAND DEALER



The Chandler and Cleveland cars are handled in Glendale by Frank S. Powell, 105 East Colorado boulevard.

This new car is being offered to the public at the price of $1295 f. o. b. factory. "Every facility of the big Cleveland plant," Cleveland officials state, "together with every power within the ingenuity of the engineers, has been devoted toward making the new Chesterfield a leader in its class."

Like the other open models of the Cleveland Six the new Chesterfield is unusually roomy in both front and rear compartments.

Low hung, suggestive of speed and the open road, finished in a rich biege-brown, with a graceful khaki top, and upholstered in beautiful Spanish leather to match —this model is one that appeals to lovers of beauty and attractiveness in motor cars. Aluminum trunk guards grace the rear of the body, while a durable trunk rack of the same metal, behind which is mounted an extra wheel, lends a rakish touch to the rear appearance of the car. A specially selected nickel spring bumper on the front, plate glass auxiliary windshields, mounted by nickel trimmings; cowl ventilator, a beveled edge rear vision mirror, windshield wiper, and a complete set of five wire wheels comprise the standard equipment.

CAN YOU FIGURE OVERSIZE TIRES? READ THIS

A great many motorists do not understand how the oversize tires are calculated and are unable to determine the oversize tire for their car. To enlighten motorists upon this subject, a prominent tire manufacturer issues the following instructions:

"An oversize tire is one in which the sectional size is as large as the next standard size tire, but having the regular size bead. It is quite evident, in the first place, that the bead diameter of an oversize tire must be equal to the bead diameter of the standard size tire it is to replace if the oversize tire is to fit on the standard size tire rim.

"To determine the oversize tire for any rim, you increase the large diameter one inch and the sectional diameter one-half inch. For instance, to replace a 34x4½ regular tire a 35x5 oversize would be required. It is readily seen that the 34-inch or large diameter is increased by one inch and the 4½ or sectional diameter is increased by one-half inch. The regular tire and its correspondent oversize have different diametral dimensions, but the same bead diameter, and are interchangeable on the same rim.

"Double oversize tires are figured by oversizing the oversize tires in the same manner. However, it is not usually advisable to place a double oversize tire on the rim, as the rim has been designated according to certain size beads."

The Age of Miracles. —By Herbert Johnson.

KEEP NUTS TIGHTENED

Beneath the rear axle of an automobile, tie rods, extending from one side to the other are placed for the purpose of preventing the axle from sagging under strain of vibration and load, while the car is in motion. Tie rods should always be taut, and if loose, tighten the nuts which secure the rods to the axle ends. Unless the rods are tight they will not serve their purpose of relieving the axle from strain.

LICENSE TAG 700,000

The automobile division of the Pennsylvania State Highway department recently issued license tag No. 700,000 to Governor Wm. C. Sproul. He has five other cars, which carry license numbers 7, 77, 777, 7777, and 77,777.

DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CAR

AN APPRECIATION AND A PLEDGE

Dodge Brothers have made me their dealer for the Glendale-Burbank District. I interpret this appointment as a high honor and a serious responsibility.

Californians have come to look upon Dodge Brothers as manufacturers of a high order of integrity.

This district, in particular, has evidenced implicit confidence in their honesty of purpose—and a marked preference for their product.

Five years' association with Dodge Brothers has taught me that they, in turn, require that their representatives shall scrupulously protect the confidence reposed in them by the public.

My one aim and ambition will be to reflect in my own organization the high regard in which they and their cars are held all over America.

CADILLAC PLANS EXPLAINED BY COURT CO.

Cadillac plans of production include the running of the factories full force during the winter, with a production even greater than that of the past 12 months, which have been the greatest in Cadillac's history, it is explained by the Court Motor company of 235 South Brand, local dealers.

H. H. Rice, president and general manager of the Cadillac Motor Car company so informed Cadillac distributors assembled from all parts of the country at the annual distirbutors' convention at the Cadillac factory. Cadillac representatives from nearly 100 Cadillac distributor organizations attended the convention.

Mr. Rice sounded an optimistic note concerning the coal situation and business in general:

"I believe that general business," he stated, "in spite of a few disturbances on the surface, is decidedly on the upgrade. I not only believe that people will be able to get coal this winterfi but also manufacturing concerns will get enough coal to operate.

"Strikes in any essential line of business are bound to be settled after a short duration. These strikes are too vital to last long. The srops this year are good and I believe the farmers will obtain good prices for them. Factories that have been shut down are gradually opening."

Lynn McNaughton, general sales manager, stated that during the 12 months just concluded the Cadillac organization had exceeded the business of any previous 12 months both in number of cars sold and in volume of business in dollars and cents.

Inglis M. Uppercu, New York distributor of Cadillac, paid tribute to the first model one-lung Cadillac just purchased by the company in commemoration of the 20th anniversary of Cadillac production. The car was built in 1902.

The visiting distributors hied to the Bloomfield Hills Country club one afternoon to enjoy golf. In the evening a banquet was held at the clubhouse. President H. H. Rice, Lyn McNaughton, general sales manager; Inglis M. Uppercu, New York distributor; P. T. Prather, manager of the San Francisco distributor organization; Roy Munger, Dallas, Texas, distributor; G. M. McWilliams, Toronto distributor; E. R. Clark, Springfield, Mass., distributor, and Dan Nolan, manager of the Cleveland distributor organization, made short talks. Motion pictures concerning Cadillac cars were also shown.

Lynn McNaughton presided at the first morning session. One of the features of the convention room was a complete display of Cadillac cars, with the literature concerning the cars.

WILLYS-OVERLAND CUTS AUTO PRICES

A drastic cut in prices of Willys-Knight and Overland automobiles effective September 18, was announced by John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland company on Saturday, September 16.

The reduction in the selling price of the Willys-Knight brings that car's price to the lowest level at which any car equipped with a Knight motor ever was sold.

Under the new list prices the Willys-Knight 5-passenger touring car, which, during the spring of this year sold at $1,525 and more recently at $1,375, is now to be had at $1,235.

The Willys-Knight 5-passenger sedan is reduced in price $145 from its former price of $2,095, making its present cost, under the new list prices, $1,950. The Willys-Knight coupe from $1,875 to $1,795.

The Overland car is reduced to $525 for the touring model and the roadster to the same amount from their former price of $550. The coupe is dropped from $850 to $795 and the Sedan from $895 to $875.

At these new prices, the Willys-Knight and Overland cars offer a number of improvements and refinements which add materially to their value and which have been big factors in the tremendous demand which has made the new prices possible. The Overland touring car and roadster models are equipped with all steel bodies, have a baked enamel finish and ride on the famous Triplex springs. They are also equipped with new and heavier rear axles, thus adding to the weight in the rear system.

"Every circumstance points to a rapidly increasing prosperity and to improved business conditions," said Mr. Willys. "Conditions in virtually all parts of Europe are not nearly so bad as they are painted and over here we are getting settled some of the fundamental problems which have held up business progress."

Mr. Willys referred to settlement of the railroad and mine strikes as one of the greatest benefits the nation has had in many years.

"The Willys-Overland company to date this year has completed the production of more cars than the entire year's schedule called for," Mr. Willys continued. "And we have just completed the largest July and August production in our plant history."

HERMAN E. PSENNER
Manager Psenner Bros. Auto Electric Co.

Everything electrical for the automobile is to be found at the establishment of the Psenner Bros. Auto Electric company, corner Chestnut and Brand. This firm maintains a complete battery and ignition service. Everyone in the place from the manager down knows his business and aims to give the very best of service.

This firm started in business in Glendale 18 months ago, prior to which time each member of the firm had several years experience in the battery and ignition business. At that time the firm was located at 610 East Broadway and was known as Psenner & Doll Auto Electric company.

On February 20 this company moved from its old location to its present stand at the corner of Chestnut and Brand. So rapidly grew the business in the old location that it was absolutely imperative that larger and more complete quarters be provided. The present building was erected especially for this firm.

The new home is complete in every detail. The battery department is one of the most complete in Glendale. Every modern detail has been installed which would tend to speed and efficiency in operation. The ignition department is equally complete. Everything in the way of auto ignition is taken care of.

This firm is agent for the Philadelphia, Willard and Exide batteries. It rebuilds and repairs all makes of batteries. It also tests headlights, being an official station. It is equipped with a two-stall adjusting device and is prepared to issue official testing certificates.

About November 1 this firm will become a branch of the United Motor Service, which will include the Delco and Remy systems and the Claxon electric horn, parts of which systems will be on hand by that time.

"Business certainly is good," said Mr. Psenner this morning, "despite the road work that is going on about us. The people are wearing a path to our door, showing that they appreciate real service and honest treatment."

A wise motorist carries his license with him at all times.

RECKLESS DRIVERS BRING MANY PROTESTS

Pink-cheeked delivery boys and drivers of commercial vehicles throughout southern and central California are calling down upon themselves a storm of criticism from motorists for careless driving, according to the Automobile club of Southern California.

There is a growing sentiment locally against the uncontrolled actions of delivery boys who are either ignorant of traffic laws, or in their youthful exuberance fail to obey even the laws that they know about.

In fact, it is stated by Auto club authorities, there is a movement now on foot to secure a control of these reckless youths by state-wide action of some sort. In some localities it is believed that the age limit of the driver of a delivery wagon should be at least 21 years of age before he secures a driving license.

Many motorists complain to the club that the drivers of delivery wagons fail to obey the speed laws, often cut-in in front of passenger vehicles with reckless abandon and cut corners without giving a signal, which is a double offense.

In Los Angeles the question has been presented to the city council by the board of public utilities seeking to secure some hold on the wild boys who launch their vehicles upon the city streets with all the energy of human catapults. The board wishes to secure control of the delivery wagon drivers so as to place an age limit upon them, if possible.

Other cities throughout Southern California are considering similar action, with a view to arousing state-wide sentiment in the matter and thus secure legislative action, which, it is declared, would hit at the root of the matter.

MOTOR BUYERS ARE CAREFUL SAYS CLARK

Impressive evidence of the remarkable shifting of public demand for closed cars is shown by the recent announcement of the Fisher Body company that they have arranged to build or take over six large plants near Chevrolet assembly plants for the sole purpose of supplying closed cars to Chevrolet Motor company.

Addition of these new plants will give the Fisher Body company the largest total manufacturing floor space in the world—the aggregate being over twenty million square feet, nearly three times the area of the United Stats steel corporation.

According to H. W. Smith, sales manager for C. L. Smith, local Chevrolet dealer, Chevrolet is the lowest priced car on the market carrying a Fisher body, hence it has attracted buyers both from the lower and higher price classes because of the high quality of the body and the engineering improvements in the chassis. Chevrolet is now the largest producer of closed cars of this quality.

In one year Chevrolet Motor company closed car requirements have increased from approximately 9 percent of its volume to nearly 50 per cent, and indications are that in 1923 more than half of its production will be closed cars.

The new Fisher Body company plants are located at Flint, Mich.; Cincinnati, O.; Buffalo, N. Y.; St. Louis, Mo.; Janesville, Wis., and Oakland, Calif. The plants will be immediately adjacent to the Chevrolet assembly plant and bodies will be carried on endless conveyors direct to the assembly plant, avoiding the expense and delay of freight shipment hitherto experienced because of the distance of the body plant from the assembly plant. It is stated that this saving would be reflected in still finer appointments of the car.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

Among the causes of traffic accidents are careless driving, children playing in the streets, poor parking accommodations, insufficient playgrounds, bad street lighting, lack of signs, narrow street limits, inadequate police force and unintelligent traffic regulations.

APACHE TRAIL ROAD WORK BEING DONE

Nearly 200 men are working on reconstruction of the Apache trail between Mesa and Roosevelt. There is a declaration that the highway was not ruined by travel, but by the fact that no inside ditches had been constructed at certain points to handle the storm waters, which have been using the roadway as a channel. Nearly $100,000 already has been spent on the road and there is expectation that the whole work to be done by the state will cost over $300,000.

With the exception of a short stretch around Mormon Flat and another section near the channel of Salt river below Roosevelt, construction is to be completed by the end of the year. The two omitted sections are to be built by the Salt River Valley Water Users' association, as they will skirt the high water lines of the Mormon Flat and Horse Mountain reservoirs.

The association has relinquished to the state all its claim to the road, one orginially built by the Reclamation service to help in the building of the Roosevelt dam, the road construction said to have cost in excess of $1,500,000. Most of the culverts are of concrete and the turns are ample, made for the accommodation of sixteen-mule teams.

Already there is reference to the "Apache Loop," this including a round-trip journey between Phoenix and Miami, going by the new Superior highway and returning by the Apache trail, a total distance of about 200 miles. There is paving for most of the distance between Phoenix, through Mesa, to the point where the Superior and Roosevelt roads diverge.

In every part subjected to stress and wear, accepted standards are not good enough for the good Maxwell. Instead, margins of safety are insisted on that make sure of continuous, low-cost operation without the necessity of frequent repairs.

Cord tires, non-skid front and rear; disc steel wheels, demountable at rim and at hub; drum type lamps; Alemite lubrication; motor-driven electric horn; unusually long springs; new type water-tight windshield. Prices F.O.B. Detroit, revenue tax to be added: Touring Car, $885; Roadster, $885; Coupe, $1235; Sedan, $1335

BIGGER AND BETTER

DURANT FOUR SETS AUTO WORLD AFIRE

The Durant Four durability car arrived at Reno, Nevada, this week with the speedometer reading 33,375 miles.

Day by day the durability car is piling up mileage and keeping track of the gasoline and oil consumed on the long grind. Through the roadless country of Mexico south of the California border and up into the Dominion of Canada the Durant Four has been running day and night.

Through the states of California, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Washington, Nevada and Utah this car has been showing the motoring public that Durant means a whole lot when it comes to turning out "just a real good car."

The tires on the Durant Four have been holding up in fine shape and the only trouble experienced being a puncture now and then when a large bridge spike would work its way into the tires. Fisk tires have been used ever since the run started four months ago. This tire is standard equipment on all Durant cars.

In keeping an accurate account of the gasoline mileage the inspectors have found that the Durant Four has been averaging twenty-one miles to the gallon of gasoline for the entire trip, and 1200 miles to the gallon of oil. Union gasoline and Aristo oil are being used on this remarkable trip.

Aside from visiting state and county fairs throughout the west, the Durant Four is sent into isolated communities in the great northwest so that everybody may know the good qualities of this wonderful car.

After visiting Reno, Carson City and other booming cities in the sage brush state, the Durant Four left for Southern California.

FISHER BODY CLOSED CARS MAKE HIT

"People are finally coming to think of the automobile dealer just as they do of the merchant selling other lines," says Lyman P. Clark of the Glendale Motor Car company, 124 West Colorado street. "Folks want local responsibility for whatever they buy, whether it be a dress pattern, a kitchen range, or an automobile. They want to feel that somebody right here in town is willing and able to guarantee that they will like what they get.

"Folks like to shop for the new car, too. They come in and look and inquire and familiarize themselves with the proposition before attempting a decision. We have long made it a custom to welcome shoppers here, and to tell them all we know about automobiles."

DAIRIES USE MANY TRUCKS

One-tenth of all the milk consumed in Los Angeles comes from the district between Pomona and Santa Ana river and practically all of it is brought to the city by motor trucks. Within the last year the production of milk in the Chino district along has increased more than 33 1-3 per cent. From this truck-transported milk the farmers derive $1,000,000 annually.

PROMINENT MOTOR MAKERS GIVE PARKS

DETROIT, Sept. 30. — Candidly acknowledging its own substantial contribution to the flood of motor cars which the automobile industry has turned loose on the highways of Michigan, causing a serious congestion of the few remaining open parks and bathing beaches within 50 miles of Detroit, Dodge Brothers, Inc., has bought up 11 of the finest park sites in the lake district north of here and donated them to the state.

The purpose of the donation is to provide a memorial to the late John F. and Horace E. Dodge and to "give motorists places where they may have their picnics, games and bathing without being constantly driven from pillar to post by indignant owners of private property."

Ten of the eleven parks have large lake or river frontage and the other is a rugged, almost mountainous parcel noted for its beautiful scenery. The parks will be known as Dodge Brothers' state parks Nos. 1, 2, etc.

In a letter to Governor Alex J. Groesbeck, formally presenting the parks to the state, Chairman Howard B. Bloomer of the board of directors of Dodge Brothers, intimates that he would like to see other automobile manufacturers follow Dodge Brothers' example and do something to provide outdoor recreation for motorists. Under present conditions, he says, it is almost impossible for the man who does not own a summer home to find a suitable place to spend the week-end.

GREATEST INCREASE IN PLEASURE CARS

The use of motor trucks in the United States has had a surprisingly rapid increase, but has not kept pace with passenger car development in the same ratio as some other countries, notably Great Britain. While the United States has almost 85 per cent of all motor vehicles in the world within its borders, still the British isles are more thoroughly motorized from a truck standpoint than the United States.

It has been found that the ratio of trucks to all cars in Great Britain is 26 per cent, while that in the United States amounts to only 13½ per cent. Great Britain has a total registration of 497,582 and a truck registration of 128,200, while the United States has a total registration of 19,448,632 and a truck registration of 1,127,482.

KEEP CAP ON VALVE

Don't make the mistake that it makes little difference whether a cap is used on the tire valve. Such a mistake is a frequent one on the part of motorists. Without the cap there is every probability that dirt will work into the valve and cause a leak. While a tire is inflated this dirt may do no harm, but when a new inflation is made the pump drives the dirt down into the valve.

MONARCH CONCERN OCCUPIES NEW HOME

The Monarch Auto Supply company will open the doors of its new home in the Monarch building, corner Harvard and Brand, Monday morning, the move to the new quarters marking the most important step ever taken by this concern. Six years ago next Monday morning the Monarch company started business in Glendale. Since that time it has experienced a wonderful growth. Step by step it has mounted the ladder of success, the crowning event being to move into its new beautiful home.

The new store of the Monarch is complete in every detail. It has a mammoth show window 24 feet wide and six and a half feet deep on the left side of the entrance and another between the entrance and the lobby. Immediately behind the show window on the north side of the building is an open display space, behind which is the fishing tackle and gun department. Triple shelving occupies the space at the rear of the gun section. At the north side of the rear of the store is the genuine Ford parts department, which will be complete in every detail. It will be equipped with a bin for every separate part, this tending to speed in service.

At the center-rear will be the brake lining and cable department, while the right-rear will be taken up by the tire repair and shipping department. The downstairs office will be immediately in front of the shipping department, while in front of the office will be the sporting goods department.

On mezzanine floor there will be the upstairs office, beside which will be the section for tires and tubes, which will be displayed on racks.

The Owl lighting system, the best possible lighting system on the market, has been installed in this store. The room is also provided with two large skylights. All of the fixtures of the store have been given a mahogany finish. In this establishment there are 6,000 square feet of floor space, all of the floors to be covered with battleship linoleum.

BAY STATE MOTOR USERS

One out of every nine inhabitants in Massachusetts is an operator of a motor vehicle or a chauffeur.

TOURISTS NEED LIGHTS ADJUSTED

"It is surprising the large number of tourists to California who are coming to us to have their automobile headlights adjusted," said Mr. Black of the firm of Parker & Black, of the Exide agency, 113 West Harvard street. "They are coming in daily and so far as we can learn most of them are intending to stay right here in Southern California.

"Most of the lights we adjust are in a frightful condition when they are brought to us. We feel that this official adjusting of headlights is going to make a wonderful difference in night driving of automobiles."

ROADS TO PUBLIC PARKS IN POOR CONDITION

Vacation season is not over yet Thousands of motorists are taking delayed trips into the mountains and to the coast, according to the Automobile club of Southern California.

But one of the saddest of facts as the summer draws to a close is the terrible condition of the roads within the national parks of California, according to authoritative testimony.

In Sequoia, General Grant and Yosemite National parks the roads have been allowed to go to pieces toward the end of the summer because the park officials believed that auto travel was practically finished.

Automobiles without improvements fast go into the scrap heap literally and figuratively. But when manufacturers keep abreast of the times and up to the latest developments in their line of activity, friendship on the part of the purchasing public is certain to accrue. This is the case with the Stephens, according to E. E. Caister of the White Auto Company, distributers of the line.

A motorist should be as clever in backing a car as he is when driving forward.

J. C. POLLOCK
Prop. J. C. Pollock Co.
Oldsmobile and Columbia Agents

"The main topic of conversation around our place of business is the recent drop in the prices of Oldsmobiles," said J. C. Pollock, of the J. C. Pollock company, 208 West Broadway. "These prices are so sweeping that there are hundreds of people, besides ourselves, talking about them. They bring the cost of the various types of Oldsmobiles down to a point far below that of any other car of equal value. Since the reduction things have been jumping around our agency. A number of sales have been made and cars delivered and altogether things are looking exceedingly rosy."

Mr. Pollock started in business in Glendale on October 17, 1921, and since that time has been located at his present place of business. This firm handles the Oldsmobile and Columbia cars, and it is the intention of Mr. Pollock to soon take on the Stephens Salient Six. Since opening this agency has sold 53 new automobiles, in addition to a large number of used cars. Seven cars were sold last week.

The repair department of this place is thoroughly equipped for efficient and speedy work. It is overseen by O. W. Hutton, who was formerly in charge of an automobile repair school in Kansas City. He is an expert in the repair of all makes of automobiles, but at this place he naturally sepcializes on the cars handled by this firm.

Mr. Pollock is one of the best known automobile men in Glendale. He owns a home at 115 Arden avenue, and is a booster every hour of the day for this city.

CADILLAC DEALERS HOLD CLOSED CAR WEEK

A national enclosed car week was held by Cadillac distributors and dealers in many cities in the United States and Canada on September 17-23. The new Cadillac Victoria and five-passenger coupe body styles served as the principal feature of novelty at the auto salons, which was held by the Cadillac dealers.

The new type 61 Victoria, the always popular four-passenger enclosed model, has been receiving enthusiastic praise from Cadillac dealers and from those Cadillac owners who have seen it.

Changes have been made which give the Victoria an impression of greater length and less height. It is considerably enlarged, providing more room for the occupants. All seats have been made wider and deeper, and the driver's seat is now so placed as to be directly behind the steering wheel. The Victoria auxiliary folding seat, which is beside the driver's seat, is so arranged that it gives more room for the person occupying it.

"In advancing the idea of the national enclosed car week," says H. H. Rice, president of the Cadillac Motor Car company, "we indicate our faith in the future which lies ahead of enclosed car sales.

"Especially at this time of year, with the approach of winter, and with about one month of the touring season left, the prospective purchaser is naturally inclined to favor an all-season model.

"The week of September 17-23 was decided upon as the one for the enclosed car salon of most of the Cadillac representatives."

A LITTLE BIT o' RILEY

Just a little bit o' Riley when the twilight's growing dim;
I can open it up anywhere and read a verse from him.
It rests me when I'm weary and it cheers me when I'm sad,
And sometimes the pathos in it, while I'm crying, makes me glad.
For I like it 'cause it's human, and my heart just seems to say,
That if it could speak, like Riley's, it would comfort folks that way.

Just a little bit o' Riley when the summer is in bloom,
For it sort o' adds a measure to the fragrance and perfume,,
It seems to lend new meaning to the chatter and the song,
Of the birds that sing up yonder and the brooks that dance along.
And I like it 'cause it's honest and my heart just seems to say
That if it could speak, like Riley's, it would gladden folks that way.

Just a little bit o' Riley when the shadows fall on me,
At the time I meet the Pilot when the stream becomes the sea;
And I want to meet him honest, as a man should meet a man,
And I want to be clean-hearted and as decent as I can.
And I want a verse of Riley and I want to smile and say:
"If my heart could plead for pardon it would talk about that way."

THE VIRTUE OF PUNCTUALITY

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers.)

To the alert and progressive business man of today, punctuality is more than a good habit, it is a virtue. He has a set time for beginning work, and day after day he begins work precisely at that time. When he makes appointments with other people he keeps these appointments to the minute.

Only some unforeseen emergency causes him to be late. If he is late from any cause whatsoever he feels uncomfortable and guilty. He may become so perturbed that his efficiency for the rest of the day is lowered.

Yet, oddly enough, in too many cases the modern business man fails to see that it is even more important to be punctual in matters relating to the conservation of his health than in the keeping of business engagements. And this failure is shared by many besides business men.

Many, for example, fail to appreciate that their stomachs demand and expect punctuality with regard to mealtimes.

"The stomach," as remarked by one eminent health specialist, "gets into the habit of secreting its digestvie juice at certain times, as meals fall due. If it does not meet with the food it has come to act upon, it will seize upon the stomach wall and cause a nauseous sense of sinking.

"This will probably be followed by a headache, for the gastric juice, which is one of our vital agents, is nothing less than an irritant poison if it has no work to do."

Irregularity in the eating of meals is, in short, a potent cause both of occasional and of chronic dyspepsia. And if dyspepsia is one of the commonest of maladies in our day it is largely because, in the stress and hustle of twentieth century life, failure to meet the stomach's requirements of punctuality is exceedinly common.

So, too, as regards the common malady of insomnia.

The brain has its punctuality demand, even as the stomach. In especial it gets into the habit of expecting to be rested through sleep at a certain hour. For some people this hour is 9 o'clock, for others 10, for others 11.

Let a person retire punctually at his customary bedtime hour and sleep promptly comes to him. But let him begin to keep later hours several nights a week, and the brain may take its revenge by refusing to permit him to sleep promptly when he does retire at his wonted time.

If he then begins to fuss and worry over the failure to sleep promptly he will find it increasingly difficult to sleep at all. Ere long, a most distressing insomnia habit may be definitely established.

In other persons, failure to be punctual in attending to the eliminative needs of their bodies may establish a habit of constipation. Nor are these by any means the only ways in which organic impunctuality leads to the imposition of penalties—penalties that may turn out to be far more severe than any imposed as a result of impunctuality in business matters.

W. C. WARING

Of the Army and Navy Store

"Another store in Glendale handling automobile goods that is proving especially popular with the motorists of Glendale is the Army and Navy store, corner Brand and Harvard. Everything in the automobile camping line is carried by this firm, and many of the outing parties leaving Glendale this summer have been outfitted by this firm.

Since locating here this store has experienced an unprecedented and unexpected growth. The management naturally expected its share of the patronage, but the way the people of Glendale supported the store was far beyond its expectations.

When the Army and Navy store opened its doors at 219 South Brand boulevard, it occupied a room 11x50 feet in size. It soon became apparent, however, that the room was too small. The stock increased and soon the proprietors began looking for larger quarters. These it finally located at the southwest corner of Brand and Harvard. Since occupying the new home the stock has been doubled and many new lines have been added.

On January 1, Mr. Waring and Mr. Miles, the original members of the firm, took in another partner, H. H. Johnson of Atascadero, who came to Glendale on account of his wife's health. For several weeks Mr. Johnson investigated business conditions here and finally decided to cast his lot with Mr. Waring. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson have purchased a home on East Windsor road and have located in Glendale permanently. In July Mr. Waring and Mr. Johnson bought out Mr. Miles' interest in the business. Each of the partners in this firm was in the cotton business in New York for years previous to coming to Glendale.

The new home of the Army and Navy store is 50x50 feet in size. A full line of new and used army goods is carried, and there is a very complete men's and boys' shoe department. Other things handled are camping goods of all kinds, for both men and women, men's furnishings, underwear, shirts, hosiery, collars, work and dress gloves, ties, suitcases, trunks, and in fact almost everything that could be imagined. This firm is exclusive agent in Glendale for the Buck-hecht hiking shoes and boots.

The Army and Navy store has grown, but the managers state that the progress of this firm has really just started. Their policy of exchanging any merchandise which is not satisfactory in every way has won for them a host of contented customers and voluntary recommendations to prospective patrons.

If you are bothered by children sounding the horn of your car when it is standing at the curb, thereby exhausting the battery, here's a tip. A switch may be placed in series with the horn circuit and the current turned off when the car is stopped. By installing the system so that the horn switch operates in connection with the ignition switch, the latter, when thrown to "Off," will automatically open the horn switch and the horn could only be sounded when the engine is running.

9th and 10th UNITS

FAIRVIEW

Lots $550

and up

As low as $25 cash, $10 and $15 a mo.

This beautiful property is selling very rapidly. Only seven lots left in the 9th Unit. We do not believe there is any place where you can buy as desirable property for as low a price and as reasonable terms as we are offering. Close to transportation, on a beautiful slope, in a section which is developing very rapidly.

Don't pay rent. Buy a lot and start your own home. We have helped hundreds of people to do this and it will be worth your while to investigate.

The reasonable price of our lots enables builders to give better value in reasonably priced houses than they could in any other place, hence houses which are being built find a very ready sale.

TEMPORARY HOMES PERMITTED

Come today or Sunday. Drive out San Fernando Road to Alameda St., Moreland Factory, then one block up to Tract office.

Ford

NEW IMPROVEMENTS give greater comfort in the Ford, and make it an even more pronounced value.

Both Coupe and Sedan now come upholstered in Walnut Brown Broadcloth, renowned for its richness and wearing qualities.

Windows in the closed cars move up and down with little effort, due to the improved type lifts which are now furnished.

New headlights, with refracting type lens, spread a bright light directly on the road, WHERE YOU WANT IT, yet comply with the laws of California.

Before you pay more for ANY motor car, be sure to see the new Fords and their improvements.

ANNOUNCEMENT

We have purchased the Eagle Rock Garage and will conduct the business at the old stand in the future. We will maintain a first class repair and service department, and will always have good mechanics to look after every need of the motorist.

Our salesroom for the Chevrolet Agency will be maintained at the Eagle Rock Garage and owners of Chevrolets will be given the same service as in the past.

K. F. McCrary, who has been in charge of our Chevrolet agency at the Eagle Rock Garage, will be in charge of our business in Eagle Rock and will extend every accommodation to the automobile public.
